Call For More Police As Seattle Strike Continues

Sheriff, Following Killing of Deputy Sheriff, Says Increased Protection Is Needed; Gives Order Deputies Must Not Leave Wharves

General Strike Talk At Other U.S. Ports

Associated Press

Seattle, July 10.—As a result of the fatal shooting of Special Deputy Steve S. Watson here yesterday evening, Sheriff Claude G. Bannick issued orders to-day that all his special deputies must stay on the docks.

Watson, forty-nine, was shot in the chest when he and other special deputies who had been guarding non-union workers at Smith Cove were attacked by approximately 100 men on a downtown street. Two seamen, John Davis, twenty-seven, and Edward Duncan, thirty-six, were arrested a few hours after the shooting and to-day were held for investigation. They were not suspected of doing the shooting, Detective Capt. Ernest W. Yoris said, but were arrested because they were found in a sedan which witnesses reported they saw at the riot scene.

MORE POLICE NEEDED

Sheriff Bannick to-day asserted additional police should be placed on duty to protect citizens, particularly the deputies and their families, many of whom have been molested about their homes.

Test Air for Stratosphere Flight

Associated Press

Rapid City, S.D., July 10.—Man waited on weather to-day for his attempt to learn secrets of the universe from the stratosphere.

One factor favored Major William Kepner, pilot of the largest balloon ever built by man, and Capt. Albert W. Stevens, scientific observer.

That was an on-coming low pressure area. Meteorologists pointed out high pressure areas, most favorable for a stratosphere flight, frequently follow.

Third Test Match Drawn; Australia Avoids Follow On

Aussies Reply With 491 to English Total of 627; England Gets 125 For 0 and Visitors 66 For 1 in Second Innings

Canadian Press

Manchester, Eng., July 10.—The third test cricket match between England and Australia was declared a draw to-day as the Australians failed to finish their second innings before the time limit expired.

The Australians had 66 runs for loss of one wicket when play ended. Their first innings total was 491, while England scored 627 in the first innings and 125 for no wickets declared in the second.

It had become obvious early in the day the game could not be finished and Captain R. E. S. Wyatt of England declared his team's innings this afternoon, allowing the visitors about two hours in which to bat the second time.

England's huge total in the first innings gave the Aussies too difficult a task in their effort to catch up. The draw left the teams on even

Two Toronto Workers Die When Roof Falls

Canadian Press

Toronto, July 10.—A. McEwan and C. Meddec were killed, while at least twelve men were in hospitals following collapse of a section of the roof of the new city filtration plant at Victoria Park to-day. A fifty-by-fifty-foot section of the roof suddenly gave way and dropped down on and around about forty men who were working on that section of the structure.

Mayor W. J. Stewart ordered a through investigation into the accident. Statement of one workman to the effect the disaster had been caused by "too much hurry with the carpentry work" would be fully investigated, the mayor said.

BELIEVE BODY IS OFFICER'S

Remains of Murdered Provincial Constable Thought Found in Fraser River

The body of provincial constable Percy Carr, alleged to have been murdered with Game Warden Frank Gisbourne by Indians near Merritt on May 23, was believed to have been found yesterday evening at Sea Bird Island, in the Fraser River near Chilliwack.

From the description of the remains provided in radio dispatches here, headquarters officials appeared satisfied they were those of the former Merritt constable.

The body was in a decomposed condition, the head particularly being severely battered. A green tie, the regulation type worn by the police, a neck band and the collar of a shirt similar to that attached to the police summer clothing were found. A straight bar gold collar pin was attached to the collar and there was a shoulder strap on part of a shoulder. The body was 400 miles from the Canford Reserve.

Inspector J. F. C. B. Vance, Vancouver criminologist, is now comparing hair from the scalp with hair found on the death car found at the scene of the alleged murder.

The body was found by Innes Mac, an Agassiz Indian, and was first taken to Agassiz, then removed to Chilliwack.

Instructions have been given to have the head washed in an effort to ascertain what dental work is in evidence, although it was understood only a part of the lower jaw was obtainable. The remains are those of a man about five feet, eight inches tall, which corresponds with Constable Carr's height.

AUTO CAMPS ARE HUMMING

More Tourists Than Accommodation; Business Better Than Last Year

"We can't accommodate all the tourists, and I'm pretty sure that is the case with all the camps," said one owner of an auto camp on the outskirts of the city when he was questioned this morning concerning the tourist business.

"We have been running at capacity for nearly a month," said a woman who helps run another camp. "We have fifteen cars a day in. At present our twenty-five cabins are full, and we have four tents up, as well as the transient camps."

All over it seems to be the same story. Cars, usually dust begrimed, from California, Montana, Alberta, Saskatchewan, Manitoba, Quebec, Illinois, Washington, Oregon and other places pack the parking spaces. And they are staying longer this year, due largely to the better weather, but also because of a better feeling among the travelers.

The woman informant added that business was much better than last year. Unusual activity is marking the month of June and the early part of July. According to another auto camp man, the tourist season, as far as the camps were concerned, started earlier this year, but the peak is being reached at present.

"We are doing very well now," he said. "We haven't enough room, but that does not mean we would be justified in building additions. The rush will be over by August, and then we will have to work all the rest of the year to pay our taxes."

RESIDED HERE FIFTY YEARS

William Clegg, Former City Employee, Dies in Vancouver

William Clegg of 124 Eberts Street, a resident of this city for half a century, passed away yesterday in Vancouver, where he had been visiting relatives for the last three weeks.

Mr. Clegg was born in Yorkshire, Eng., eighty-five years ago. He came to Victoria fifty years ago and for a number of years was in the employ of the city.

He is survived by his widow, six sons, Thomas, in Vancouver; Frank, in Bakersfield, California; Roy, Oakland, California; Archie, George and James, Victoria; and four daughters, Mrs. A. Sutherland, Courtenay; Mrs. T. W. Colley, Victoria; Mrs. J. McDonald, Vancouver, and Mrs. A. J. Baines, Victoria. One daughter, Mrs. W. S. Duncan predeceased him. Twenty grandchildren and two great-grandchildren also survive.

SEATTLE LAD BADLY HURT

The condition of six-year-old Robert Davidge of Seattle, who suffered severe injuries in a fall while playing at Beacon Hill Park yesterday, continued as critical in St. Joseph's Hospital to-day.

The lad had his head severely fractured and his arm broken when he fell twelve feet to the hard surface of the playground while attempting to climb the apparatus for a slide down a double-barred chute.

Youngsters who witnessed the accident stated the boy had succeeded in reaching the top of the iron bars which run parallel to the ground at an angle. He apparently lost his balance and was rendered unconscious by the fall.

The other boys ran to his assistance and seeing his condition was serious, one lad summoned Dr. J. M. Fowler by telephone. Another lad ran to the road and got a passing motorist to drive his car on to the grounds, from where the unconscious lad was removed to the hospital.

Late this afternoon the lad was reported to have regained consciousness, but he was not out of danger.

The place where the accident occurred is a favored playground for children. It was estimated Bobby fell twelve feet.

The lad is visiting in Victoria with his mother, Mrs. R. N. Davidge, and was staying with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. D. Pollock, at 1760 Bay Street. His father has been notified [illegible] the city to-day or to-morrow.

Dollfuss Is Linked With German Plot

Vienna, July 10.—Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss was accused of having had full knowledge of Captain Ernst Roehm's plot against the Third Reich by Alfred Frauenfeld, exiled Austrian Nazi leader, in a speech at Munich yesterday evening.

German Chancellor Calls Parliament Into Session Friday to Tell It About "Second Revolution" and Executions

By A. C. Steufferud
Associated Press Foreign Staff

Berlin, July 10.— Chancellor Hitler to-day called the Reichstag, rubber stamp of the Nazi dictatorship, into session Friday for an accounting of the "Second Revolution."

Silent since the climatic events of June 30, "Der Fuehrer" himself will mount the forum of the national Parliament to address the nation and the world on innumerable questions Germans and foreigners have been asking in explanation of the executions which attended the Nazi "purging" process.

Strong denials were officially uttered in Munich about reports from Vienna that Austrian Nazi leaders like Habicht and Alfred Frauenfeld and others had been executed as traitors in connection with the storm troop revolt.

The reports were branded "gross lies."

"The Austrian Nazi stand in unflinching loyalty behind Hitler," said an official announcement.

Terrific Hitting Rally In Fifth Inning Defeats National League Players

Joe Cronin's American League Stars Blast Lon Warneke and Van Mungo From Mound With Six-run Attack; Final Score Is 9 to 7

Medwick and Frisch Crash Home Runs

Canadian Press and Associated Press

Polo Grounds, New York, July 10.—Coming from behind with a batting attack that blasted Lon Warneke, Chicago Cubs, off the mound and also drove Van Mungo, Brooklyn, to cover, the American League All-Stars whipped the National League All-Stars to-day, 9 to 7, for their second straight triumph.

A crowd of 52,000 fans saw Joe Cronin's crew clinch the game with a six-run rally in the fifth, after which young Mel Harder, Cleveland righthander, held the Nationals in complete subjection.

Harder, relieving Lefty Gomez and Red Ruffing, New York Yankee pitching aces, who yielded six runs in the first five innings, held the Nationals to one solitary hit for the remainder of the game.

HUBBELL PITCHES WELL

Carl Hubbell, ace southpaw of the New York Giants, blanked the Americans for the first three innings, with a thrilling exhibition while his mates were climbing on Gomez for four runs, to home runs by Frank Frisch and Joe Medwick, but Warneke and Mungo were unable to check the big bats of their rivals.

Hubbell struck out six men in the first two innings, retiring Babe Ruth, Lou Gehrig and Jimmy Foxx on strikes in succession, with runners on second and third base.

WARNEKE YANKED

Warneke relieving Hubbell in the fourth, was touched for two runs on hits by Simmons, Cronin and Earl Averill, who connected for a triple as he pinch hit for Gomez. The Chicago righthander was yanked after passing Ruth and Gehrig at the start of the fifth, but Mungo was greeted by a terrific blast, yielding six runs on hits by Foxx, Simmons, Averill and Ruffing, mixed with two passes.

London, July 10.—Foreign Minister Louis Barthou of France left here to-day in a cheerful frame of mind after two days of conversations with British cabinet officials regarding the situation in Europe.

Before he left the minister said: "We French and British discovered we are agreed on the European situation. I am very content."

NAZIS SCORE WORLD PRESS

Goebbels, German Propaganda Minister, Says Recent Events Distorted

Berlin, July 10.—Paul Joseph Goebbels, Nazi Minister of Propaganda, read the riot act to the press of the world to-night, especially the French and British press, in an address internationally broadcast.

Paul J. Goebbels

"I call you all to witness," he said in describing the suppression of the Second Revolution, "that there have been cases of lies, slander and misrepresentation of the true facts such as are almost without parallel in journalism."

A large part of the foreign press, he charged, "has embarked on a campaign of lies which in its maliciousness can be compared only with the campaign of atrocity tales that were set in the scene against Germany during the war."

Goebbels's version of events eleven days ago was as follows:

June 30 passed off without friction, without the slightest domestic tremor.

"With his authority and with remarkable brevity, Der Fuehrer (Hitler) quick as lightning suppressed the revolt of a small coterie of saboteurs, ambitious men afflicted with a malady.

"Peace and order were disturbed nowhere in the entire country. The people of Germany went on a holiday as though nothing had happened, or else continued their work without interruption.

SIGH OF RELIEF

"The people in their entirety, however, welcomed with a sigh of relief the liberating need of Der Fuehrer which saved Germany and thereby the entire world from direct catastrophe.

"A huge wave of confidence welled up in the entire nation for Adolf Hitler because of his heroic acts. If anything in Germany changed, it was possibly this: That the German people are devoted with even greater love to Der Fuehrer and to the political regime represented by him."

Goebbels quoted liberally from French, English, Austrian and Russian newspapers to show the German people they must not believe what they read in the foreign press.

He showed, for instance, Vice-Chancellor Franz von Papen was reported dead by some and as Hitler's successor by others at the same time.

RELIEF POLICY IS IRONED OUT

Municipal Heads Discuss With Government New Plans For Handling Unemployed

Segregation of Inter-provincial Transients Is Aim; Employment Contact

Disagreement between the Union of B.C. Municipalities and the provincial government over the new relief policy, to be effective next month, was ironed out this morning in an hour's conference between Hon. George S. Pearson, Minister of Labor, and representatives of the union.

"We came to an amicable settlement and feel sure the problems can be worked out to our mutual advantage," said Mayor David Leeming, vice-president of the union, afterwards.

In considering a tentative set of regulations drafted by the government the union had claimed these measures would throw an extra burden on municipalities for the relief of transients.

Mr. Pearson explained to the delegation his plan to segregate, under the re-registration starting on August 1, all those who are inter-provincial transients. These are defined as per-

NO TAX SALE IN PROVINCE

Government Decides Policy For Relief of Land Owners in Arrears

No tax sale of provincial lands in arrears of taxes will be held this year, it was announced this morning from the office of the Minister of Finance, Hon. John Hart.

When held these sales take place about the middle of October, but it is felt by the government that it would not be fair to farmers to hold a tax sale this fall.

At the same time it is not in the interest of the farmers to have tax arrears piling up, so it is proposed to give them an opportunity to work out one year's arrears provided that public works upon which they can be employed are available in their district.

Farmers wishing to take advantage of this offer will present to the district engineer a statement from the provincial collector showing the amount due in arrears for one year, and if work is available the necessary arrangements will be made. Collectors of taxes and district engineers have been given instructions accordingly.

It is believed that this arrangement will result in considerable benefit to farmers who are in arrears with their provincial taxes.

Call For More Police As Seattle Strike Continues

"The city should be more adequately patrolled to prevent this reign of terror," he said. "My men are not protected on the streets, so I have ordered them to stay on the docks. I will relieve any deputy of his badge if he leaves the pier against this order."

AGITATORS BLAMED

Alfred H. Lunding, president of the Chamber of Commerce, and Peter B. Gill, head of the Sailors' Union of the Pacific, to-day both blamed agitators for the killing of Steve Watson yesterday evening, the second to occur in this district during longshoremen's disturbances. Shirley Daffron was fatally shot June 30 when striking longshoremen clashed with guards at an oil company plant at Point Wells, near here.

SAW CROWD GATHER

Only one policeman, Floyd I. Green, was at the scene of the riot. Yesterday evening on duty on his beat, he saw a crowd gathering at a street intersection and ran toward it, he related to-day.

"When I got there I found four deputies lined up against the front of a beer parlor," Green said. "They had their backs to the building and had drawn their pistols. A hundred or more men had come up Seneca Street from the waterfront on foot and were milling in the intersection. I did not see any weapons on any of them. They had the deputies hemmed in, but were not getting too close on account of the guns. I went in to protect the deputies. I had them put their guns in their pockets because I was afraid there might be a fight and someone might be shot.

Then a small roadster carrying Watson and two other deputies, Green said, drove up and stopped at the edge of the crowd.

SHOT FIRED

"Watson started out of the car and several men jumped on him," Green said. "I was thirty or forty feet away. Before I could get there I heard a muffled shot and found Watson lying in the street."

Watson was beaten severely and the roadster overturned before the shot was fired. After the shooting the crowd fled, and all had disappeared by time a riot squad arrived from police headquarters.

SECRET VOTE

Meanwhile, to decide if a secret election should be held on the question of returning to work, overwhelming approval of the plan was shown. Only twelve of the first 200 ballots received were against the formal vote.

International Longshoremen Association officers, however, called the ballot "camouflage."

"Seattle will not vote by itself, and neither will any other port," said J. C. Bjorklund, western district secretary of the organization. "Any vote, before we will recognize it, must be taken over the Pacific Coast as a unit, and must include seamen as well as longshoremen.

GENERAL STRIKE THREATS

San Francisco, July 10.—Another death and increasing general strike threats in three cities drew the United States Pacific Coast maritime dispute rapidly toward a new crisis to-day as a federal board pleaded for an armistice.

Gunfire added the seventh victim to the death list since the strike started May 9, when Steven S. Watson, forty-eight, a special duty sheriff, fell fatally wounded in a Seattle business district battle yesterday evening.

The six previous victims were strikers or sympathizers.

Trade unions in Portland and Oakland took definite action toward general strikes, while a similar threat hanging over San Francisco spurred the federal board to determined efforts to bring a truce. Shipowners were called to answer questions pertaining to an armistice proposal late to-day, according to O. K. Cushing a member of the board. The board conferred yesterday evening with the "strike strategy" committee of seven appointed by the San Francisco central labor council.

WILL VOTE

The Alameda County (Oakland) central labor council, representing seventy-nine unions with a membership of 32,000, yesterday called for a general strike vote.

The Portland labor council was authorized by the 105 unions in the city, with a membership of 25,000, to proceed with arrangements for a general strike, Oyst Anderson, secretary, said.

Advised by William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, that it was without authority to call a city-wide walkout, the Portland council authorized a "police committee" to draft a general strike plan, which will be submitted to the individual unions.

COMMITTEE TO DECIDE

At least twenty of San Francisco's 120 unions, whose membership totals 45,000, have voted for a general walkout or authorized the labor council's strategy committee to decide on the question.

An immediate threat of spreading disruption to business and commerce is the decision of 3,700 San Francisco and Oakland teamsters to strike Thursday morning unless progress is made toward settlement of the maritime strike.

Shots cracked on the San Francisco waterfront late yesterday as California national guardsmen extended their military rule. Five bullets were fired at an automobile driven by Harlan Dykes, Santa Clara University basketball coach, as he drove past a traffic barricade. Dykes was released after he explained he did not hear the sentries' challenge.

PURPOSE OF VISIT NOT TOLD

The "Czar of the movies," who arrived in this city unannounced, denied the present activity of the Roman Catholic Church's Legion of Decency to remove indecency from films, which has been joined in by other denominations, had anything to do with his visit. The denial was made through a member of his party.

WOULD OUST HAYS

Canadian Press

New York, July 10.—A virtual demand that Will Hays be "thrown out" of his place in the motion picture industry of the United States was made yesterday by a leading member of the Inter-faith Conference of New York, which extended its drive against undesirable motion pictures to the legitimate stage, burlesque shows and taxi dance halls.

Rev. Father Joseph A. McCaffrey, serving as spokesman for the group, asserted the movie situation would be "cleared up as soon as Will Hays was thrown out."

NOT ALL OBJECTIONABLE

Rome, July 10.—Darryl Zanuck, chief of production of the Twentieth Century Motion Picture Company, said to-day he had cabled the Motion Picture Producers' Association for authorization to seek an audience with the Pope to discuss the campaign against indecent movies in the United States.

The American film man arrived here yesterday, some twenty-four hours after the Pope had given Cardinal Dougherty of Philadelphia authority to use his name as a staunch supporter of the campaign of Catholic bishops in the United States.

Zanuck said he hoped to have an opportunity to convince the Pope that not all motion pictures made in the United States are objectionable, and urge that the campaign should not blacklist good films.

RELIEF POLICY IS IRONED OUT

sons who entered the province since October, 1930.

The minister is firmly convinced that B.C. can never solve its unemployment problem until it tackles the transient question seriously and reaches a different understanding with the Dominion Government. To determine just how many of the unemployed fall definitely in this class is one of the major aims of the re-registration.

It was in connection with this move the municipal heads had argued the cost of maintaining transients would fall back on them, but after hearing the minister's explanation were in line with the idea.

Some other details, regarding definitions of domicile and similar matters, have yet to be settled, but these will be taken up by the Minister and his administrators with the relief officials of the municipalities later.

Another feature of the new regulation, Mr. Pearson said, will be the classification of all unemployed according to the positions which they are able to fill. This will be the foundation for an employment-stimulating policy fostered by a contact man working through the relief department and surveying opportunities in industry and other avenues for jobs.

It is expected the complete relief policy, which also embodies changes in the allowances, will be placed before the cabinet for ratification next week.

Lottery Moneys To Go To Provinces

If Winners of Sweeps Are Prosecuted Under New Dominion Law Prizes Will Be Ordered Surrendered to Provincial Treasuries

Canadian Press

Ottawa, July 10.—Provincial treasuries will reap the benefit under a bill passed by Parliament at the recent session which did away with the "informer clauses" of the Criminal Code. Under the new law, provincial Attorneys-General may take legal action to recover money won in lotteries, instead of the old law which gave any man or woman that right.

The act reads the money shall revert "to the crown" if action is taken against the winner of a lottery, and this is now explained as referring to the provinces, which have legal jurisdiction under the British North America Act.

Introduced by Hon. Hugh Guthrie, Minister of Justice, the bill passed the House and Senate in record time, because the common informer has had no friends on Parliament Hill since the law was invoked five or six years ago.

For the last two or three years the informer law has been more or less a dead letter on the statute books. As soon as a man won a lottery prize he had a friend bring action against him in the courts, shutting off any person who might covet his winnings.

Under the new law, discretion is left with provincial Attorneys-General whether an action is taken against a lottery winner.

U.S. WHEAT CROP ESTIMATES CUT

Last year's total wheat production was 527,000,000 bushels.

The visitors, replying to a great English first innings score of 627, fought hard at the end to avoid following on and W. J. O'Reilly's smashing hits pulled them through the emergency.

Don Bradman, who got 30 yesterday, and E. A. Chipperfield, who was out to-day for 26, both tottered onto the field from the sick-room, and Alan Kippax was taken to hospital with tonsilitis.

The Aussies' innings was more steady than exciting. Stanley McCabe, their highest scorer, hit 137. Able support came from W. A. Brown, one of the first wicket pair, with 72, and Captain W. M. Woodfull with 73.

Play was resumed in scorching weather and the attendance, 25,000 yesterday, had dropped to 3,000.

Walter Hammond and Edward Clark took over the bowling and Chipperfield got seven off Hammond's first over.

Chipperfield was batting steadily. Hammond and Hendren missed a catch between them when O'Reilly put Clark's delivery into the slips. Chipperfield finally went out when C. F. Walters made a fine running catch at square-leg to grab a skier he sent up off Hedley Verity. The Australian had 26 and had played a fine innings considering his condition. He stayed in an hour and a half.

T. W. Wall's wicket, the last, went for 18 when he was run out.

Wall and O'Reilly struggled to bring their team's score within 150 of that of England and thus insure the visitors against being forced to follow on.

Wall batted steadily but O'Reilly leashed out for the boundaries. O'Reilly would have been run out, only John Hopwood did not pick the ball up fast enough.

O'Reilly hit a glancing boundary to leg off Allen and with only six to go to reach the magic figure, he hit a two and followed it up with a boundary through leg trap.

O'Reilly batted with skill for two hours and had 30 not out when the last wicket fell.

ENGLAND BATS AGAIN

England started batting just before lunch, with C. F. Walters and Herbert Sutcliffe the opening pair. At lunch time they had twenty-one for no wickets, Walters twelve and Sutcliffe eight.

The Australians put Bradman in the field, but E. H. Bromley substituted for Chipperfield.

The temperature rose to 83 and the atmosphere became very oppressive. England seemed resigned to a draw and the batting became dull. The fifty went up in an hour and five minutes.

Walters was hitting to leg and driving to the off, while Sutcliffe was trying to keep the ball down. He hit for the first boundary for six in the game, smashing McCabe's delivery to square-leg and reaching his fifty in less than two hours.

Walters raised his score to fifty in two hours and twenty minutes and Captain Wyatt declared in time to give the Australians two hours at bat.

The Aussies lost their first wicket for one run when W. A. Brown was caught by Hammond off Allen without scoring. His partner, W. H. Ponsford, continued with McCabe as second wicket partner and hit 30 before the game ended. McCabe had 33.

The Australians got 50 in the first hour and Ponsford hit his 1,000th run of the season. Everyone appeared tired and bored at the indecisiveness of the game.

TRUSTEE BY ACCLAMATION

Charles Randall Bishop Succeeds Late John L. Beckwith on Victoria Board

CHARLES R. BISHOP

Charles Randall Bishop, broker, 816 Linden Avenue, to-day became a member of the City School Board by acclamation, no other candidate having come forward to contest the seat left vacant by the death of John L. Beckwith, when nominations closed at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Mr. Bishop filed his papers some time ago when the council decided to have a by-election to fill the post. His nomination was sponsored by A. R. Wolfenden, 922 Government Street, and John Givern MacFarlane, 1327 Douglas Street.

The successful candidate was runner-up at the last school elections, having placed close to Trustee T. B. Monk.

The council decided to hold the by-election in view of the length of the late trustee's unexpired term. However, since no one has come forward to oppose him, Mr. Bishop will go into office without the formality of polling.

Mayor Acts On Survey Group

Government Chooses Leeming For School Cost Revision Committee

Following a meeting between Hon. G. M. Weir, Minister of Education, and representatives of the Union of B.C. Municipalities this morning, it was announced Mayor David Leeming, Victoria, had accepted the minister's invitation to sit on the revision committee in connection with the survey of educational finances.

The membership of the revision committee now is: Herbert Anscomb, M.P.P.; Mrs. Paul Smith, M.P.P.; Rev. Robert Connell, M.P.P.; Prof. H. F. Angus and Mayor Leeming.

The executive of the union had complained the committee was "top-heavy" with educationists and Dr. Weir immediately invited them to name one of their representatives and they expressed themselves as satisfied with the new arrangement.

The large general committee to be selected from numerous interested organizations is slated to meet July 30 to commence work.

British-French Talks Strengthen Friendship Links

cabinet officials and the French delegation, headed by M. Barthou, the conversations "made it possible for the two governments clearly to appreciate their respective points of view on questions under discussion."

These questions, the statement said, "included French proposals for additional mutual security in eastern Europe, the future of the Disarmament Conference and preparations for the naval conference of 1935."

When M. Barthou departed for Paris he left Francois Dietri here for a few days longer to carry on conversations with Sir Bolton Eyres-Monsell, First Lord of the Admiralty.

TWO SERIES OF PACTS

French mutual assistance proposals mentioned in the communique cover a double series of mutual pacts as a preliminary to a general pact linking the two with the Locarno treaties and the covenant of the League of Nations.

One series of regional pacts would embrace France, Germany, Russia, the Baltic States, Poland and Czechoslovakia. The other would be a Mediterranean naval Locarno embracing Italy, France and other European states bordering on the Mediterranean.

In principle this would be a pact of naval non-aggression, with an attempt to establish an equilibrium of naval power in the Mediterranean Sea.

NEVER MORE FRIENDLY

M. Barthou was understood to have replied to Acting-Premier Stanley Baldwin's assurances of the friendliest permanent relations between Great Britain and France that never had Anglo-French relations been more cordial, of more mutual value, and of more value to the peace of Europe.

Informed circles felt M. Barthou would be satisfied with whatever technical collaboration Britain had agreed to give to France under certain circumstances.

With regard to the eastern European security pact proposals it was pointed out by observers that Britain does not oppose these pacts — which France appreciates—but Britain continues to maintain such pacts are "France's babies," and that she has no connection with them.

DISARMAMENT QUESTIONS

Whether general disarmament questions will be linked with the 1935 naval conference apparently remains undecided.

M. Barthou, at this morning's session, tried to get Britain to agree to a general conference, it was learned, but the French suggestion was left in abeyance temporarily.

Canadian Press from Havas

London, July 10.—London papers to-day gave much editorial space to comment on the visit of Louis Barthou, French Foreign Minister, who conferred with British government officials here yesterday and to-day.

Keen interest was shown in M. Barthou's plans for establishing "eastern Locarnos" in central and Oriental Europe, but all papers took it for granted Britain would not be drawn into them.

"Such pacts as Oriental or Mediterranean Locarnos," commented The Daily Telegraph, "might, in British opinion, make for peace on the following conditions: That they were real Locarnos, freely united former allies and enemies in mutual trust and co-operation, and that they did not threaten to complicate and impede the proper working of the original Locarno by grafting on the latter responsibilities in other areas."

NATIONAL DEFENCE

According to The Morning Post: "From the British point of view national defence is now a more pertinent matter than the limitation of armaments, and given the certainty that France and Britain would be on the same side if any conflict broke out, the desirability of co-ordinating their action is the dominating factor."

The Daily Herald criticized what it called "a return to methods of secret diplomacy" and said "M. Barthou's visit is one of the many symptoms which seem to indicate that a dangerous revolution in British foreign policy has been or is being carried out."

Storm Troop Reserves Turn in Arms; No Reichswehr Autumn Manoeuvres

Munich, Germany, July 10.—A secret order was issued to-day to all members of the storm troop section known as S.A. Reserves number one to turn in their arms, which will be stored in depots.

The uncertainty of the political situation here was thrown into sharp relief by the order.

The weapons referred to were described as "state property."

The population was greatly alarmed. No casualties have been reported.

Americans Win U.S. All-Star Baseball

ond, Nationals kicked at the decision. It was a pair of stolen bases. Foxx also fanned. Hubbell retired the three foremost American League sluggers in succession. No runs, one hit, one error, two left.

SECOND INNING

Americans—Al Simmons was Hubbell's fourth straight strike out victime. Cronin also took three hearty swings. Bill Dickey finally broke the spell, banging a curve over Jackson's head for a single. Gomez also fanned, making Hubbell's fifth strikeout victime in two innings. No runs, one hit, no errors, one left.

Nationals—Berger hoisted one foul behind third base, but missed two swings. Bill Terry's best was a high fly that Simmons caught behind second base. Jackson swung and missed the third strike. No runs, no hits, no erros, none left.

THIRD INNING

Nationals—Hubbell raced to the clubhouse after finishing his three-inning stunt with an allowance of only two singles, two bases on balls and fanning six. The Giants' southpaw was given a wild ovation. Hartnett was thrown out, Cronin to Gehrig. Bill Herman, Chicago Cubs' infielder, batted for Hubbell and popped the first pitch to Cronin. Frisch walked. On the hit and run play, Pie Traynor bounced a single over second base. Frisch raced to third. Joe Medwick walloped a curve into the upper leftfield stands, scoring Frisch and Traynor ahead of him and giving the Nationals a four-run lead off the American League's premier pitcher. Cuyler lined to Ruth. Three runs, two hits, no errors, none left.

FOURTH INNING

Americans—Lon Warneke of the Cubs went to the box for the Nationals. Foxx was retired on a grounder, Jackson to Terry. Simmons got only two bases on a drive that hit the left-field wall on the fly. Cronin slashed a single, scoring Simmons with the first run for the Americans. Dickey, took a called third strike. Earl Averill, Cleveland outfielder, batting for Gomez tripled to deep right field, scoring Cronin. Warneke walked Gehringer. Manush lifted a high foul to Traynor. Two runs, three hits, no errors, two left.

Nationals: Big Charley "Red" Ruffing, Yankee righthander, went in the box for the Americans. Berger lifted a high foul to Foxx. Bill Terry fouled a half dozen balls before slashing a single to left. Jackson lifted a short fly to Averill, who had taken over centrefield while Simmons moved over to left, thereby eliminating Manush from the Americans' line-up. Hartnett grounded out, Foxx to Gehrig. No runs, one hit, no errors, one left.

FIFTH INNINGS

Americans: Ruth took two called strikes. The count reached two and three. And then the Babe walked on a fourth ball. The Nationals were highly dissatisfied with the umpiring. Warneke was thumped out of the game by Terry. Van Mungo, big Brooklyn righthander, was called to the rescue and Dizzy Dean to the bull pen. Foxx lashed the first pitch for a long single, scoring Ruth and sending Gehrig to third. Simmons scratched a hit to Jackson, scoring Gehrig with the trying run. Jackson made the try for a force-out at second, but Foxx was safe as Frisch had to leap high for the catch. Cronin popped to Hartnett. Dickey, walked on a fourth ball after taking two called strikes. The bases were filled with only one out. Averill slashed a double down the rightfield line, scoring Foxx and Simmons. Dickey pulled up at third. Gehringer was purposely passed, filling the bases again, as Ruffing cracked a single between Traynor and Jackson, scoring Dickey and Averill with the fifth and sixth runs of the inning. Gehringer stopped at second. Ruth bounced out, Terry unassisted, advancing Gehringer to third and Ruffing to second. Gehrig fanned to end the big rally.

Nationals—Ben Chapman went to right field for the Americans, replacing Ruth. The game being at the midway point, the umpires shifted assignments. This put Brick Owens, American League umpire, behind the plate, instead of Pfirman. Pepper Martin of the St. Louis Cardinals batted for Mungo and walked. Frisch drove a single over Cronin's head and Martin galloped to third. Traynor scratched a hit off Gehringer's glove, scoring Martin. Frisch halted at second. Chuck Klein of the Cubs batted for Medwick and slashed a hit to right, scoring Frisch. Traynor stopped at second. Mel Ott, Giant outfielder, batted for Cuyler. Ruffing was replaced by Mel Harder, young right hander of Cleveland Indians. Ott lashed a line drive to Chapman, who dropped the ball, but recovered in time to force out Klein at second base, Croning taking the ball for the put-out. Traynor dashed to third and Ott was on first. No error was charged against Chapman. Paul Waner of the Pirates, batted for Berger. He struck out, but Traynor scored and Ott reached second safely, for a stolen base. The play was scored as a double steal, with Traynor also getting credit for stealing home. Terry walked and Arky Vaughan, Pirate shortstop, batted for Jackson. He forced Terry, Cronin to Gehringer.

SIXTH INNING

Americans—With Dean in the box for the Nationals, Klein was in left field, Paul Waner in centre and Ott in right. Vaughan went to shortstop and Al Lopez behind the bat. Foxx fanned, but Simmons got to second when Frisch lost Al's Texas leaguer in short right. Cronin clouted a double into left field, scoring Simmons. Dickey walked, and Cochrane, Detroit manager and backstop, went in to run for him. Averill took two strikes and swung at a high one for the third. Cronin was trapped off second and Lopez ran all the way out to second in the rundown, finally completing an unusual double play on his own toss to Vaughan.

One run, two hits, no errors, one left.

Nationals—Cochrane went behind the bat for the Americans. Lopez fanned as Harder fooled him on a low curve. Simmons came in to make a nice running catch of Dizzy Dean's sharp drive. Frisch grounded out, Cronin to Gehrig.

Nationals—Traynor was thrown out, Cronin to Gehrig. Klein bounced to Gehrig and was safe at first. It was an error for Gehrig. Ott grounded to Cronin and Klein was forced, Cronin to Gehringer, but Mel beat the throw to first. Waner flied out to Gehrig.

EIGHTH INNING

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

NINTH INNING

Americans—Fred Frankhouse, the fifth National League pitcher, went to the box. Averill was out on a sensational running catch by Vaughan, near the left field foul line. Gehringer walked. Chapman flied out to Klein. Harder fanned.

Nationals—Sam West went to centre for the Americans, replacing Averill. Frankhouse bunted. Cochrane got the ball and made the put-out at first. Herman slashed a double along the left field line. Traynor flied to West in short centre. Klein grounded to Gehrig, who retired the runner on a toss to Harder.

LUMBER BLAZE IN VANCOUVER

Fire of Unknown Origin Completely Destroys Cedar Mill; Lumber Consumed

Canadian Press

Vancouver, July 10.—Only a smouldering mass of ashes and twisted iron remained to-day of the $250,000 plant of the Western Red Cedar Mill Limited, following a fire of unknown origin which broke out shortly after last midnight and devoured buildings, machinery and great lumber stocks.

Apparently starting a bunkhouse, the flames spread rapidly to adjoining building and ate into the dry lumber and waste wood about the property. Before firemen were on the scene the blaze was out of control and the premises obviously doomed. No insurance was carried.

A vivid red flare across the sky brought thousands of people to the scene and extra police were called out to check the milling crowds. Firemen battled for several hours before bringing the flames under control.

MADRID JAILS FASCIST GROUP

Associated Press

Madrid, July 10.—Jose Antonio Primo de Rivera, son of the late Spanish Dictator, was arrested today with about 200 Fascist followers in a raid on the Spanish Fascist headquarters.

Among those apprehended were the Marquis Eliseda and the transatlantic flier, Capt. Julio Ruiz de Alda, both members of the Fascist directorate.

Spanish assault guards pounced on the Fascist headquarters on Riscal Street in a dramatic raid, believed in informed police circles to have been inspired by the government acting on a tip the Fascists were planning some sort of an uprising.

The entire Fascist directorate was taken off to prison. Among them was the noted writer Jose Maria Alfaro.

REICHSTAG IS TO HEAR HITLER

cellor Hitler gave an exhaustive account of the first year of his stewardship.

Hermann Wilhelm Goering, Prussian Premier, when he called the foreign press together on June 30, stated Chancellor Hitler would address the nation probably the same night, or at least the next day.

CHURCH QUESTION

In political circles the question is being raised whether Chancellor Hitler wil touch in his speech to the Reichstag on the church question.

The Associated Press was reliably informed that Catholic bishops sought an agreement from Hitler that he would state in some public speech that he had nothing to do with the so-called neo-pagan movement, but that he still adheres to the point in his party programme which insists the new state shall be reared on the basis of "positive Christianity."

Interest centred to-day on Hitler's reported plans for a vacation cruise this summer in the Baltic Sea. It was pointed out that should the occasion arise he would be ready for a quick flight from Germany.

Apprehension spread in Berlin and elsewhere because of a serious shortage in potatoes. Import quotas from Belgium and other countries were increased.

The German Reichstag, Parliament of the Reich, abdicated on March 23, 1933, after passing an empowering act granting Chancellor Hitler's demand for four years of dictatorial power.

Since that date the Nazi Party, headed by Hitler, has been in supreme control of affairs in Germany.

Provisions were made, however, for safeguarding the institution of the Reichstag as "an organ of the Reich for the representation of the German people."

DEATH AT LAKE

Chilliwack, B.C., July 10 (Canadian Press). — Seized by a heart attack as he was wading in Cultus Lake Sunday afternoon, Ben Wiede, twenty-three, of Dalminy, Sask., died before he could be brought ashore. Wiede was with his brother, John, and had walked out until he was waist-high, when he suddenly collapsed. Helpers brought him to shore and applied artificial respiration without avail.

TREATY MADE TO INCREASE TRADE

British-Lithuanian Exchange of Goods Expected to Grow

London, July 10.—Mutual most-favored-nation treatment is accorded under the new British trade agreement with Lithuania.

The United Kingdom agrees not to increase its present level of import duties on Lithuanian hewn, sawn and planed soft wood, plywood, wood pulp, butter, bacon, ham and eggs, but no British duties are reduced. Lithuania is also promised that in the event of quotas being imposed on agricultural produce the allocations to the little Baltic state will be not less favorable than those granted to other foreign countries.

In return, Lithuania grants tariff reductions on British coal, coke, herrings, textiles, automobiles, tires inner tubes, and iron and steel. Not less than 50 per cent of the total Lithuanian imports of coal and not less than 50 per cent of coke are to be obtained from the United Kingdom.

The agreement will run until December 31, 1936. After that there is provision for renunciation by either party after six months notice.

Canadian Press

Vancouver, July 10.—Struck by an interurban electric car at Alexandra Station on Lulu Island, near Lansdowne, John P. Butler was instantly killed early yesterday morning.

DRUG STORE ROBBED

Winnipeg, July 10.—Believed crazed by narcotic drugs, an armed bandit yesterday held up a drug store in the west end of this city, tied two employees to a chair and escaped with a quantity of morphine, cigarettes, $9 in cash and a portable radio. Police believe the robber was the same man who held up two drug stores in similar fashion last week.

HARD TO FIX BEER PRICES

Washington, July 10.—Price fixing is not working so well in the beer business, because brewers know so many ways of getting their code provision for price posting.

A brewer cannot grant a discount to a saloonkeeper or other retailer. But he can order his collectors to buy drinks for the house whenever they call. One, two drinks or more—depending on how many customers are there. The effect is a discount on the beer and an "unfair trade practice."

TAXPAYERS COMPLIMENTED

Collection in Esquimalt Moving Satisfactorily, Councillors Learn

Up to the end of June $77,776.34 of a total tax levy of $119,403.05 had been collected in Esquimalt municipality, according to figures laid before the councillors at their meeting yesterday evening. In 1933 66 per cent of the levy was collected during the whole year, whereas about 60 per cent of it has been collected to date this year.

"I wish to compliment the taxpayers on their fine showing. It is better than last year," commented Councillor Albert Heald, chairman of the finance committee.

Complete figures were given in the printed report of G. H. Pullen, municipal clerk and tax collector. On the general rate levy of $108,258.36, a sum of $65,197.75 had been collected by the end of June, with the estimated collection being $71,433.97.

With regard to the sewer rates and rentals, $5,939.81 had been collected on a levy of $11,144.69, with the estimated collection for the year $6,352.47.

As far as tax arrears and delinquencies were concerned, $7,085.75 had been collected on an amount outstanding December 31, 1933, of $35,503.53. The estimated collection was placed at $10,273.16. The amount collected on arrers in excess of the estimate was $1,247.03, while the balance to be collected on delinquencies as per estimate was $4,434.44. Tax arrears become deliquencies after one year.

L. Bevan, manager.

Associated Press

Bastrop, La., July 10.—A young negro farmer lay dead in an undertaking establishment to-day, lynched by a mob after officers reported he had confessed an attempted attack on a prominent white girl.

Three hundred men hanged Andrew McLeod, twenty-six, from the limb of an oak tree on the court house square here late yesterday evening despite his cries and pleas for mercy.

McLeod was accused of attempting to attack the nineteen-year-old girl early Sunday near Jones, La., thirty miles from here. He was arrested and officers were preparing to file a formal charge against him at the time the mob battered down the door of the small brick jail yesterday evening and seized him.

WHEAT CONTROL IS BROUGHT TO TEST

Associated Press

Washington, July 10.—Secretary of Agriculture Henry Wallace yesterday ruled tentatively for a continuance next year of the present 15 per cent wheat acreage reduction, but hinted the control lead would be lifted unless other powers should comply with the international wheat agreement.

Observers read his pronouncement as in effect a warning the United States was prepared to expand acreage and toss more wheat into world competition unless terms of the London agreement are met to the letter.

Final decision on the wheat control programme will be delayed until early next month, shortly before planting time for winter wheat. Mr. Wallace declared that if it were found at that time other signatories had not prepared to adjust their wheat production the present restrictions on United States acreage might be modified.

The terms tentatively announced yesterday call for a continued reduction of 15 per cent in acreage from the base period, 1928-1932, a processing tax on wheat of 30 cents a bushel and benefit payments to farmers of 29 cents a bushel.

BRITISH FARM GAINS TOLD

Increases Under Government Aid Reported to House of Commons

By George Hambleton, Canadian Press Staff Writer

London, July 10.—"The tide has turned for British agriculture," Rt. Hon. Walter Elliot, Minister of Agriculture, yesterday told the House of Commons with a note of exultation. The minister was reviewing the government's accomplishments through its subsidies, marketing schemes, tariffs, quotas and import restrictions to put British agriculture again on its feet.

He warned, however, that there was no justification for "foolish" optimism. What had been accomplished, he said, was the beginning, not the end. He added the time had gone when agriculture could be considered a minor British industry.

BIGGER WHEAT ACREAGE

Assisted by a subsidy, he continued, the area under wheat had increased from 1,247,000 acres in 1931 to 1,740,000 acres in 1933. Imports of foreign condensed skimmed milk had been reduced by 26,000,000 pounds and the cut had been replaced by home production of 30,000,000 pounds of the commodity. Exports of British condensed whole milk, he said, had been doubled during 1933. British egg production, which stood at 100,000,000,000 before the war, was now 300,000,000,000.

In Lancashire, he said, "there are more hens than people."

The general index of agricultural prices, which stood at 107 in 1933, was 111 at the end of the first six months of 1934.

In the last eighteen months improvement had been registered in wages and hours of 300,000 agricultural workers.

Mr. Elliott described the government's aim in agriculture as self-government in industry. The purpose was to safeguard British agriculture.

GERMAN CHURCH DISCUSSION ENDS

Associated Press

Berlin, July 10.—The lid was clamped down tight to-day on a public discussion of the troubles of the Protestant Church throughout Germany.

Wilhelm Frick, Minister of the Interior, yesterday sent this order to the governors of all states:

"Despite my repeated remonstrances the church strife is still being waged bitterly.

"While the government maintains it is not its business to interfere with internal church affairs, it is determined not to permit its building up policy to be undermined.

"Therefore I forbid without exception all public discussion of the subject by word of mouth or print. Only official notices of the Reichsbishop are permitted to appear."

Stabilization Of U.S. Dollar Opposed

Canadian Press

Washington, July 10. — Vigorously objecting to any attempt to stabilize the United States dollar now, Senator Elmer Thomas, Oklahoma Democrat, yesterday dispatched a cablegram to Governor George L. Harrison of the New York Federal Reserve Bank, saying his reported efforts in that direction "are certain to provoke a demand for a congressional inquiry." Harrison is in Basel, Switzerland.

Thomas, one of the leading Senate inflationists, said that "press dispatches affirm that you and other American bankers are abroad for the purpose of discussing with European central banks a renewed proposal to stabilize our dollar with England's pound, or to enter an agreement to tie it to a fixed weight of gold."

DISEASE WAVE IS DYING DOWN

Los Angeles, July 10. — A marked decline in the number of new cases of infantile paralysis is shown in reports here.

The Los Angeles city health department reported a total of eighteen new cases for Sunday and yesterday, bringing the July total to 148.

The county had one new case since Saturday and a total for July of forty-six. Two weeks ago the new cases for both city and county were running above thirty a day.

Canadian Awarded British Scholarship

Montreal, July 10.—Ernest Solomon, M.Sc., Ph.D., native of Dauphin, Man., has been awarded an 1851 Exhibition scholarship, entitling him to two or three years' study abroad, it was announced here yesterday by T. H. Matthews, McGill University registrar.

Dr. Solomon took his master of science degree at the University of Manitoba and had two years of graduate study at McGill University, where he gained his doctor's degree this year in the department of chemistry.

The exhibition scholarships, founded with surplus funds of the 1851 Exhibition in London, enable the holders to continue special studies in universities abroad for a period of two years and in special cases three years.

Maritimes Urge Better Terms Plan

Charlottetown, P.E.I., July 10.—In the same chamber where seventy years ago the Fathers of Confederation built for a new Dominion, the Premiers of Canada's Maritime provinces joined yesterday in a fresh effort to gain for the Maritimes the rights they have claimed for years as due from Confederation.

From the deliberations of the one Liberal and two Conservative Premiers came the decision to lay before the Dominion government "definite proposals" for the implementation of recommendations brought down by the Duncan Commission in 1926, after its investigation of Maritime claims.

NEW ANGLE IN INVESTIGATION

New York, July 10.—A statement by Ivan Poderjay that Agnes Tufverson, missing New York and Detroit attorney, had boarded a train for Montreal last December 21 in New York was received yesterday by local officials through Vienna police.

The statement was part of a fourteen-page letter signed "Stamped," president of the Vienna police, and giving further results of investigation in the Austrian city.

Poderjay, the soldier of fortune who married Miss Tufverson shortly before she disappeared last December, is still being held in Vienna.

COALITION GOVERNMENT

SOME CONSERVATIVE NEWSPAPERS which seem somewhat bewildered at the turn of events in various provinces of Canada are criticizing Mr. Mackenzie King for not agreeing with Sir Edward Peacock, Canadian-born governor of the Bank of England, that Canada would solve her difficulties much easier if she followed the example of Great Britain and tried a coalition government.

What offended the newspaper critics of Mr. King was his statement in reply to Sir Edward's comments, which were made at a dinner given by the Canadian High Commissioner, that the next government would be neither a coalition, Conservative, nor a government "formed at the suggestion of British financial interests . . . or the Bank of England." This is part of the editorial observations of The Vancouver Daily Province on the incident in question:

> Of course this was all anathema to Mr. King. He could see in it the fine Conservative hand of High Commissioner Ferguson. He could find in it the inspiration for a rise out of Premier Bennett, in answer to the question of what Mr. King thought about a national government for Canada, that any government for Canada would be better than Premier Bennett's government. Mr. King can see the handwriting on the wall. He can see an election and a premiership and a term of office lying loose for the taking. Mr. King proposes to take it, the luck of the party game having come his way again, he believes. We are under no illusion that any argument or any consideration will induce Mr. King and his Liberals to forego their advantage.

What seems to be conveniently forgotten in any suggestion that the two major parties get together and form a coalition government is that three years ago, Mr. Mackenzie King urged the Prime Minister to appoint an impartial, competent national commission to explore thoroughly the unemployment situation—the major problem of the country then and of much greater magnitude at the present time—but Mr. Bennett ignored the suggestion entirely. Those newspapers which now want what they call the "party game" dropped were strangely silent then—because a Tory government suited them. In the session of 1932, the idle army having grown considerably in the meantime, the opposition leader repeated his appeal. Still the Prime Minister rejected the advice. Again in the session of 1933, with the number of the unemployed much greater, Mr. Bennett was urged to appoint this national commission. Nothing was done about it.

And it would be interesting to know how by any stretch of the imagination the government in office in Great Britain can be called a national government in the sense of a fusion of political forces. It is almost an entirely Conservative government, just as Conservative, in fact, as the government at Ottawa, and it is now committed to the Conservative policy of protection. In the present House of Commons in London there are just under 470 straight Conservative members out of a total membership of 615, while those Liberals and Laborites who joined the cabinet under Premier MacDonald's leadership are just as Conservative now as some of those Liberals who joined the Union government in Canada in 1917, and remained in the Conservative fold. Incidentally, the government in Britain is on its last legs.

A LEPROUS CIVILIZATION PLANS BACTERIAL WAR

A LOT OF THE THINGS THAT HAVE happened in the world in the last few years are almost enough to give a thoughtful person the feeling that the human race has gone quite mad.

Nothing points quite so strongly in that direction as the things which get printed when that "next war" is up for discussion. Glance, for example, at the article recently published in England by Wickham Steed, veteran journalist, and former editor of The London Times.

Mr. Steed says that disease germs and poison gas will be used against civilian populations in the next war. Elaborate plans for infecting municipal water and air supplies with bacteria have been made, he tells us, and large-scale epidemics are pretty apt to be a part of future combats.

In making this prediction, Mr. Steed, unfortunately, does not stand alone. In Richard W. Rowan's recent book, "Spies and the Next War," the same forecast is made. Mr. Rowan even presents diagrams of the ingenious containers by which espionage agents can introduce cholera germs into foreign cities.

Reading such things, one is almost made ready to agree with those prophets of calamity who assert that modern white civilization has run its course, that European culture is about to go the way of Assyria and Egypt. When nations prepare to throw disease germs at one another, they are ready to commit suicide on a grand scale. For disease germs do not respect international frontiers.

Plant the plague in your neighbor's backyard to-day and you will have it in your own bedroom to-morrow. If the bacteriological offensive is to become a part of warfare, Europe faces a future compared to which the Dark Ages will seem like a period of peace, prosperity, and enlightenment.

A British novelist recently remarked that we do not say that a man who has leprous spots on his body is a healthy man afflicted by unhealthy symptoms; we say he is a leper, and as long as the leprous spots remain, we class him as a very sick man, no matter how sound some of his organs may be.

The same thing, suggests this novelist, is true of civilization. This business of enrolling bacteria as soldiers is a leprous spot on modern civilization; and it testifies that the whole body of twentieth century society is deathly sick.

BLIND SELFISHNESS

A MORE COMPLETE MISUNDERstanding of the essentials of modern urban life has seldom been seen than that displayed by the New York woman who sued for an injunction to prevent use of a public school playground, adjacent to her home, except at such time as school actually was in session.

In her bill this woman charged that prolonged use of the playground by children was "a nuisance and a menace to public health."

Someone who knows all about the facts of life ought to take this woman on a little trip some time. She should be shown how children have to play in the streets, when public playgrounds are not available; and she should be shown the way in which the street breeds crime, degeneracy, and general all-around trouble for the community which forces children to play in it. Then, maybe, she would see a light, and realize that a constantly used playground is a life-saver and not a menace.

SHE SET AN EXAMPLE

IT IS HARD TO THINK OF ANY OTHER person in the films whose illness would have caused as much genuine sorrow throughout this continent and farther afield as has that of Marie Dressler. And in that fact there is a little object lesson for the moguls of Hollywood.

Miss Dressler won the regard of the public for various reasons. She was a first-rate actress, for one thing. None of her pictures ever skated over to the edge of the salacious; when you saw a Marie Dressler film advertised, you knew in advance that you could go without seeing anything to make you blush. And, in addition, the woman herself had a character and a personality as wholesome and refreshing as anyone would care to find.

The film luminaries of whom these things can be said are exceedingly few. The movie industry would be in a much more healthy condition if the Marie Dressler formula for success were copied more widely.

MR. FERGUSON AND TRADE

SPEAKING IN LONDON YESTERDAY, Hon. Howard Ferguson, Canadian High Commissioner to Great Britain, said imperial trade must be built on a solid foundation, with no quixotic changes, suggesting that its roots be embedded firmly before the United States changed its trade policy to get back Canadian buyers.

Canada's business with the rest of the British Empire unquestionably has improved in the last twelve months. Just how much of that improvement has been due to the operation of the trade pacts, entered into at Ottawa in the summer of 1932, can not accurately be gauged. No doubt a considerable amount of the increase can be traced to the effect of those agreements, especially as far as lumber is concerned.

Canada's business with British countries in the twelve months ending April of this year was worth $426,900,000, or a gain of $85,900,000 over the corresponding period a year ago; but in the same twelve months the Canadian-United States exchange was valued at $447,000,000, or a gain of $83,100,000 over the previous twelve months.

It will be seen, therefore, that with the United States market virtually closed to some important Canadian products, the volume of Canadian business with that country alone is still greater than with the whole of the Britannic Commonwealth. It can be said, incidentally, that as soon as the neighboring republic reduces its tariff on Canadian lumber, British Columbia's unemployment situation will be very considerably eased.

Four years ago, Canada's business with the United States was valued at $1,362,000,000—more than $200,000,000 in excess of the Dominion's total external trade to-day—or $730,000,000 more than Canada's trade with the empire. Indeed, the 1930 business we did with our neighbor was approximately half our total external trade.

Premier Bennett, knowing how necessary it is for Canada to increase her trade with the United States, some time ago started negotiations with the Washington government with this object in view. It also is suggested that the presence in Ottawa of Hon. W. D. Herridge, Canada's Minister to the United States, is connected with these negotiations. It hardly looks as if the government at Ottawa is taking any steps calculated to delay a better economic understanding with the neighboring republic. The whole matter, of course, is largely one of geography.

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

DROUGHT IN RUSSIA
The Montreal Gazette

To fight the great Soviet drought every fire engine, pump, water barrel, bucket, tractor and locomotive has been mobilized throughout the North Caucasian wheat belt, says a Moscow dispatch. The rain falls on the just and unjust, and abstains from falling on Socialist or Fascist territory as the weather man sees fit. Nature pays no attention to politics and it is just another thing that politicians cannot control, however highly they may estimate their abilities.

A TALE WITH A MORAL
The Lowell Banner

A story is told of a medieval village that decided to hold a great feast. To insure its success, a huge cask was built into which each participant agreed to pour a bottle of wine.

"If I fill my bottle with water," soliloquized one, "and empty it into the barrel with the others, surely it won't be noticed."

The big day arrived, as days inevitably do, and with all the villagers assembled the great cask was tapped. And lo! only water flowed forth. Each of the villagers also had reasoned, "My bit will not be missed."

Community feasts have gone out of style, but not the moral of this tale.

A THOUGHT

Loose Ends

The fashionable folk get something for nothing up at Buttle — and not much — Red, the tough egg, is discovered in depressing circumstances—and the public doesn't approve of brains.

By B. B. W.

SOMETHING FOR NOTHING

THE LATEST THING among the fashionable folk of British Columbia, I see by the society columns, is to fly to Buttle Lake, camp there in luxury and fly out again after catching large quantities of fish. Alas, no place is sacred any more, not even Buttle Lake? There is no justice left in the world, no compensation for us who have walked to Buttle, with our packs on our backs, who have earned our fish and our holiday. The fashionable folk will fly in there in their thousands and catch the fish and deplete the whole lake and fly out again, to do the same for some other remote paradise.

There is something altogether disagreeable about the idea of flying in fashionable parties to Buttle. It is not illegal but it is worse. It is unsporting. There is no law of man to force you to earn your fish and your holiday at a place like Buttle. If you want to take it without payment—except in filthy lucre — there is no statute of the Legislature to prevent you.

But there is a law of nature somewhere that governs the case. By that law it is ordered that no man who gets to Buttle or any similar place by subterfuge, without labor and tribulation on the trail, without tired muscles and sore feet, shall never really know the full joy of the adventure at all. He may camp in luxury with rich food and liquid refreshment. He may catch fish and imagine he is a hardy pioneer. But he will never really know the higher truths, the greater rewards, the supreme thrill of the rest that is earned at the end of the trail.

But this just arrangement of nature, unhappily, won't save the remote fishing grounds and the remote suburbs of paradise from the new invasion. Soon you will have airplanes swooping down into every lake where there are fish, bearing fashionable folk who come not to commune with nature, not to pit their strength against distance and hardship, not to rediscover their manhood, but to murder fish in luxury, in much the same fashion as some hardy sportsmen of the village sit in a launch and drink beer and haul salmon out of the Inlet instead of rowing about all day in the hot sun as an honorable man should. There should be a few places like Buttle where no roads are ever built, where no airplanes are allowed, where only the man who is willing to work for his reward should be permitted to enter.

TOUGH EGG

LONG AGO, so long that the memory of him is only a vague and grisly shape among the shadows, there was a boy in our class at school whom he called Red. He would have been known in these times as a tough egg, but in that innocent day we referred to him merely as a rough-neck. Our vocabulary was very limited then.

Well, Red was the terror of our school. He used to beat everybody up regularly and stalk about the playing grounds like the big, bad wolf. Everybody was terrified of him and Red grew up to be a very tough young man. I do not think that he ever committed any serious crime, but he continued to be a rough-neck. He haunted poolrooms and bootleggeries. He swaggered through the streets with a disagreeable leer. Occasionally he got into a fight and knocked some fellow out, and his voice was so loud and harsh that it made you tremble to hear it. All the boys of our generation knew Red for the roughest neck in the whole village, and we looked forward with a kind of secret pride to the day when he would be hanged.

Well, I merely want to record, for the information of that generation of ours that, after many years of obscurity, Red has turned up again. I discovered him while I was driving around Marine Drive the other night. I stopped my car to observe him more closely, for I could hardly believe my eyes. Yes, it was Red, the tough egg, all right—Red, the animal who could not be tamed, the abysmal creature who was not built for civilization, the dangerous guy.

Red was on his hands and knees pulling weeds out of a bed of nasturtiums in front of a little stucco bungalow, and a couple of children, just able to walk, were busy climbing all over Red. I heard him tell his neighbor across the fence that he was proud of his cabbages this year. Poor Red. I suppose it is the soft enervating climate of Victoria.

BRAINS

THE ROOSEVELT GOVERNMENT in the United States is taking a lot of punishment these days on account of its Brain Trust, on account of its appointment of young professors to high office. In a lesser degree, the Pattullo Government is probably finding something of the same reaction in British Columbia. The reason is obvious—the public suspects brain trusts because its suspects brains.

Brains in public office give the public an inferiority complex. People don't like to have men running them who are too clever. It makes people realize how ignorant they are themselves. And if, in addition to being brainy, the office holder is also young, then the public is almost bound to dislike him. It is annoyed to think that a young fellow knows so much more than it does at twice his age.

Your ideal candidate or appointee shouldn't appear to know too much. He shouldn't look brainy. He should not talk in involved sentences and learned idiom. If you are thinking of being a candidate in the forthcoming federal election, therefore, don't look brainy. Just look natural and talk your customary bilge. Then you may get elected, after which you can unloose your mighty intellect, allow your genius to flame up freely again in parliament; but if you do, you probably won't be re-elected four years hence.

I was discussing this matter to-day with a great political organizer, whose name is a household word in western Canada. He said he would like to see Mr. So-and-So nominated in a certain constituency because he was a brainy and able young man. "That's the trouble," said the great authority. "He's too brainy and able. Can't be elected. And what we need is candidates who can get elected. If they happen to have brains as well, that's to the good. But they must get elected before they are any use."

The brainy man must conceal his intelligence and be one of the boys. The public always distrusts professors and decries them because it knows in its heart that they know more than it does. That is a humiliation not to be tolerated. After all, the public gets few satisfactions. Why should it be denied the one superb thrill of trampling on its betters?

Hon. William Templeman visited the dredges Ajax and Mudlark this forenoon to ascertain how the work of deepening the inner harbor was progressing. He found the Ajax doing excellent work directly opposite the chemical work deepening the channel from sixteen to twenty feet. The Mudlark never worked to better advantage. She has removed this season about eighty-five thousand square yards, and is rapidly providing sufficient depth of water on the east side of the harbor from the railway bridge to the Victoria Machinery Depot and across to Turpel's ways.

OLD GOLD

In city by city
And town by town,
Through street after street,
Men go up and down.
Through the whole wide land
At each home they ask:
"Have you any old gold?"
What a curious task!

They are buying the chain
On youth's neck that gleamed,
They are buying the dream
Which a lover dreamed,
They are weighing a locket
That held a loved face,
They are buying a cross
From a source none can trace.

They are getting a mother's Marriage band,
And the ring she took
From a dead child's hand.
It will all be purged
Of its dross and dreams
And hidden away
From the sun's warm gleams.

LEAGUE OF NATIONS

To the Editor:—We are told that the ancient Sumerians were conquered by the desert Semites, armed, mark you, with bow and arrows. They were used also by the Babylonians and Assyrians.

The Romans neglected them and received, consequently, a tremendous licking from the Parthians with their mounted archers; but the Roman Byzantium Empire survived for many centuries, because they cleverly understood the value of mounted archers.

The historic Greeks, on the other hand, neglected the bow to their undoing.

Let us take to heart the value of the noble bow, so clearly proven in the crises of history, and let us, therefore, gather at the League of Nations garden party, to be held on the afternoon of Wednesday, July 11, in Miss Agnew's lovely garden, and there prove that our eyes are as keen, and our touch as true as the ancients, in the noble pastime of archery.

C.C.F. WITCH DOCTORS

To the Editor:—As one who takes a great interest in social questions of the day, I have attended several lectures addressed by F. Roberts in the C.C.F. interest. While recognizing the ability of the lecturer, I cannot understand the position he has taken to-day in view of his past utterances.

I have come across an old Vancouver Sun, which contains on page 4 of October 17, 1933, an address by Mr. Roberts headed "C.C.F. and Witch Doctors," from which I would like to quote a few passages. He said then:

"Because they deceive under the name of Socialism, the C.C.F. were the greatest liars among all the political witch doctors."

Farther on he says:

"Lots of people run away with the idea that Telford is a Socialist. He says so himself, so it must be so. Telford is not worrying about the working class. He is a politician, out for himself, the same as all other politicians in the C.C.F., and the United Front too."

Again he says:

"The C.C.F. wants to nationalize the banks, but Australia, Germany, Italy and Finland have nationalized banks, and the workers in those countries seem to be worse off than here."

Again he says:

"If the C.C.F. did achieve power in Canada, Woodsworth would go out just as Premier Lang did in New South Wales, if he tried to substitute production for use for production for profit, or he would learn his lesson just as MacDonald had done in England."

Now, Mr. Editor, I have one object in view, namely, the truth. I have heard Mr. Roberts in the last month or so paint a beautiful picture of what conditions will be like when the C.C.F. gets into power; that if they nationalize the banks and other essential industries, there will be no such thing as a commodity labor power. We will only have to work two hours a day, or less, etc.

Now, I believe Mr. Roberts owes an explanation to the people of Victoria. How does he reconcile his attitude as a member of the Socialist Party of Canada and his speech as printed in The Sun as quoted above, and his present attitude in Victoria in upholding the C.C.F. in every illusion they bring forward?

REVERTED PROPERTY

To the Editor:—The writer has been waiting to see if someone more capable would take up this question of reverted property. Almost anyone you may talk with will admit that it is assuming serious proportions so this may start the ball rolling.

There is one particular angle of this question that I would like to point out, and that is the unfair treatment the owner receives. Let us take an illustration: A couple when starting out on their married life decides it would be nice to own a place of their own, and sets out to acquire same; when by dint of hard work, scraping and sacrificing, in the course of a quarter to one-third of a century, they have accumulated a property worth $4,000 to $5,000. Then times of adversity come along, or sickness, or both; the parties are unable to pay their taxes, which in three years would amount to $300 or thereabouts. What happens? Why, the city places the property on the tax sale list, and some party, who has been more fortunate than the owner, purchases same for the amount of the taxes, say the $300. What becomes of the balance of the equity? Does the original owner get it? Certainly not, but the more fortunate individual who buys in at the tax sale and benefits to the extent of $3,700. Ye gods, is this British justice? Gunmen will usually rob and plunder from those who are best able to stand it, but here is a case where, by sanction of the legislature, the city and others are allowed to rob people of their life savings and all that is dear to them, when they are down and out and unable to help themselves.

The writer was in conversation with a property owner recently, a God-fearing man with no vices, who has been unable to pay his taxes through no fault of his own, but entirely due to the period through which we are passing. I know he was just dreading what will happen.

Now, Mr. Editor, something should be done for these unfortunate individuals, and this wholesale robbery (excuse the term, but to my mind it is nothing more nor less) must stop. These people need far more assistance than anything that has been offered so far, and it is up to the powers that be to help them retain that for which they have labored so hard and cherished so dearly.

VACATION LAND

To the Editor:— The capital city of British Columbia is a good place to live and work in, with an ideal climate and friendly people.

But it is well and advisable to sometimes travel and take note of what other communities are doing for the benefit of their citizens.

Compared with Victoria's indifferent facilities for sea bathing, the other coast resorts are way ahead and modern in every detail. Some of the smallest municipalities have splendid accommodation for their seaside visitors and residents.

First you notice that every encouragement is given to people of moderate means to prolong their visit for several weeks and there is "welcome on the mat" for children in nearly every apartment house.

The beaches are kept "clean," and do not demonstrate how many tin cans of tomatoes or string beans have been used by the population. There are outdoor sea water swimming pools with graded depths and well constructed floats and diving boards, also a well paid, efficient life saving staff, and above all modern equipped dressing rooms with sanitary toilet conveniences kept absolutely clean.

Every train now arriving from the Canadian central provinces is bringing capacity passenger loads of visitors vacation bound, and it would be interesting to know how much Victoria and district are getting of this revenue producing and welcome business. Perhaps we pay too much attention to the grand hotel and day trippers, and do not make the place attractive enough to hold visitors for any length of time.

Anyhow the excessive boat ferry ferry charge of $4.60 return from the mainland retards any great migration this way. Victoria should be included in the 1 cent a mile rate.

SUNNYSIDE.

THE CANOE RACE

To the Editor:—On July 4 we took advantage of the excursion to Port Angeles and were greatly thrilled by the dogged courage and splended seamanship of the Alexander boys. On their arrival the crowds gave them a most enthusiastic reception. Just credit was also due to G. I. Warren, Dr. Hunter and the other members of the organizing committee for the gallant way in which they carried out the patrol in face of exposure and hardship and the continuous buffeting by heavy seas. These gentleman were pretty well "all in" by the time they reached Port Angeles.

This event, and the sports organized by the American Legion, were most exciting and enjoyable. The only thing that marred the pleasure was the seemingly unnecessary immigration regulations. The delay coming home was most irritating, to say the least, and even on reaching Victoria all this red tape had to be gone through once again. We did not land for well over twenty minutes after the steamer had tied up.

The majority of the excursionists were family people and well-known residents of Victoria and vicinity. Under the circumstances it would seem that the "powers that be" are doing everything they can to discourage travel between the two countries.

Needless to say, the immigration officers, both in Victoria and Port Angeles were most courteous. It is not the individual officers we are protesting about. They are just victims of a foolish system, like ourselves, but surely some simpler form could be adopted for people on both sides of the line who are just paying a friendly visit to each other.

"DISGUSTED"

July 7.

Because he considered it would work a hardship on the tradesmen of the municipality, Reeve Alex Lockley led the opposition to the request of the Navy League of Canada for a refreshment concession in Esquimalt during the visit of H.M.S. Norfolk. The reeve pointed out that the Navy League of Canada was not an Esquimalt organization and that no opportunity should be missed to help the municipality's business concerns. The council agreed and its sentiment will be conveyed in writing to the Navy League.

With over 100 boats taking part the second competition of the Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers' Association on Sunday was an outstanding success. Fishing at Saanich Arm is good at the present time and all the competitors Sunday got fish, even though they failed to win prizes.

FLOWER SHOW INNOVATIONS

Show at Willows July 27-28 Will Have Wider Scope Than in Former Years

The eleventh annual show of the Victoria Horticultural Society will be held in the main building at the Willows on Friday and Saturday, July 27-28.

A number of innovations have been introduced into the prize list for this year, chiefly in the floral section.

The committee in charge of the arrangements of the show has given much time to preparing a schedule in keeping with the artistic effect which is becoming more popular every year. The committee has also in mind the introducing of the same effect in the smaller classes, which will enable the smaller grower to take part. Color harmony is expected to take a great part in this year's displays, and quite a number of classes have been added for baskets, vases and bowls.

Upwards of 100 classes have been arranged for in the floral section, with another fifty in the fruit and vegetable section. The committee, too, is hoping that its efforts in catering for the small grower in addition to the average grower, will be well patronized in this respect.

Prize lists or information may be obtained by communicating with the secretary, P. E. Boulter, 338 Obed Avenue. Phone E2490.

A sinking fund investment of $2,000 in Township of Esquimalt 6 per cent bonds, due 1942, at 95 was approved at yesterday evening's meeting of the Esquimalt Council. Councillor Albert Heald, chairman of the finance committee, in pointing out that these bonds would yield 6¾ per cent, said it was a good bargain under present market conditions, though not quite as good as at first anticipated. Reeve Alex Lockley said he considered it was a very good deal and the investment was immediately approved. The matter is in the hands of C. M. Oliver and Company Limited.

Back From Trip Of 10,000 Miles

J. W. Bell, Victoria, manager of the Singer Sewing Machine Company, has returned from a 10,000 mile motor trip across the continent, attending a conference of sales managers of the Singer Sewing Machines at New York while away. Mr. Bell traveled east by the southern route via Portland and the famous Columbia River highway, visiting Salt Lake City, Denver, St. Louis, Cincinnati, Atlanta, etc., before reaching the Atlantic seaboard and Washington, D.C.

Returning, Mr. Bell and party traveled north to New York and east over the beautiful Hudson River Drive, to Buffalo, Niagara Falls and Toronto, Ontario, where he met his daughter, Alice, who has been a student of Toronto University.

After visiting his old home at Brantford, Mr. Bell and party returned west by Chicago and the northern route through the Dakotas and Montana, Yellowstone Park to Seattle.

Mr. Bell reports a wonderful trip, thoroughly enjoyed by himself and daughter, who accompanied him, but says they are all delighted to get back to the cool weather of Victoria.

Duncan En Fete For Sweet Pea Festival

Streets of Island Town Decorated With Fine Blooms

Special to The Times

Duncan, July 10.—The business section of Duncan is to-day in gala attire for their third annual sweet pea festival. Growing sweet peas in attractive boxes and in full bloom have been placed on the sidewalks. White tables decorated with flowers and sweet peas have been placed at various points throughout the business area, and an effective scheme of street lighting and overhead decoration has also been carried out with flags. A large striped tent as a booth, where sweet peas are being sold and visitors may register has been placed in the E. and N. parking space, opposite the memorial monument.

The festival attractions will begin to-morrow morning with a pet parade and crowning of the festival queen at noon. At 1 o'clock an inter-city meeting of the Victoria and Nanaimo Rotary Clubs will be held at the Commercial Hotel.

During the afternoon a flower show, championship softball and gymkhana is scheduled. At 9 o'clock in the evening a flower show and bathing beauty and fashion parade will be staged.

On Thursday afternoon junior olympic games are slated. In the evening the festival will wind up with a dance.

Various excursions have been arranged and the ferry Cy Peck will make a special trip from Victoria to Cowichan Bay to-morrow.

QUEEN IS CHOSEN

After a spirited election contest, which closed Saturday night, Rona McDonald, the Elks' candidate for festival queen, was elected. She received 42,400 votes, while her nearest competitor, Jessie Buckham, the candidate of the Rotary Club, received 30,380 votes. Two other candidates, Mary Bone and Laurel Colk, received 3,100 and 2,900 votes respectively. These three will act as maids of honor to the queen.

VISITING QUEEN

Miss Betty Lowe, Ladysmith's queen on Dominion Day, has accepted an invitation to be present at the crowning of Queen Rona. The queen will be crowned by Mayor Prevost.

ISLAND BOARDS MEET TO-MORROW

Gathering at Duncan For Convention; H. B. Babington to Preside

Duncan, July 10.—Arrangements have been completed for the convention of the Associated Boards of Trade of Vancouver Island, which will open here to-morrow for two days.

The delegates will assemble at the Commercial Hotel for registration and appointment of committees.

As P. B. Fowler, Victoria, president of the associated boards, is absent in England, H. B. Babington of Saanich, vice-president, will be in charge of the convention.

A dinner meeting will be held to-morrow evening, at which the speakers will be the Hon. Geo. S. Pearson, Minister of Mines and Labor, and G. G. McGeer, M.P.P. Later the delegates will be guests of the sweet pea festival committee at a flower show and fashion parade in the Agricultural Hall.

The business session will start at 9 o'clock Thursday morning in the I.O.O.F. Hall. The delegates will be guests of the Duncan Chamber of Commerce for lunch at the Maple Inn at Maple Bay, when W. E. Payne, executive secretary of the Vancouver Board of Trade, will speak.

BAND CONCERT IN NEW PARK

The Canadian Legion band, Britannia branch, conducted by Bandmaster Raine, will present a programme in the new Hollywood Park Wednesday evening commencing at 7.30 o'clock.

Through a series of concerts money has been raised to build a memorial drinking fountain, which will be set up this week. This will be a useful addition to the park and a lasting memorial to the late Dr. Harling and the other brave rescuers in the sad disaster last January.

A collection will be taken at the band concert to defray the expense of a suitably inscribed plate.

TAX BOYCOTT WARNING MADE

Esquimalt Movement Would Compel Appointment of Receiver, Bishop Tells Council

That there was a view held in the municipality which was embodying itself in what might be described as a movement, to the effect that people should refuse to pay their taxes so as to compel the appointment of a receiver, was testified to by Bishop G. E. Lloyd at yesterday evening's meeting of the Esquimalt Council.

Bishop Lloyd, as president of the Esquimalt Ratepayers' Association, was enlarging on a letter from the secretary of the association containing a resolution which was passed at the association's last meeting, which the bishop described as a largely attended one. The resolution, adopted unanimously, called for a reduction on the general estimates for the year from $62,000 to $60,000. There was also a question attached which asked under what headings the increase of $1,733 over the estimates in the public works department had been made.

In his brief remarks Bishop Lloyd said he considered the estimates for the year certainly should not have exceded those of last year, and if anything, should have been reduced. The estimates for the school board had been excessive, he thought, and reductions might well be made there.

Bishop Lloyd added that he personally had opposed from the chair all expressions of sentiment for a receiver. He did not see what could be gained from such a step. There seemed to be, however, a belief in the municipality that he had started the talk about a receiver. On the contrary, he blamed members of the council, since at the last annual pre-election meeting the words "receiver" and "commissioner" had been thrown at the audience two or three times.

The question of the excessive estimates was a different matter, Bishop Lloyd pointed out, and one which might be dealt with satisfactorily when the nature of the present times was considered.

REEVE REPLIES

In reply, Reeve Alex Lockley stated that the general rate of the estimates was set by by-law and could not be altered now; that, in his experience as reeve during previous terms, the public works department had always been underestimated, and that the appointment of a receiver would merely be cutting off one's nose to spite one's face.

"The provincial government is unalterably opposed to appointment of receivers. Also, there is absolutely no reason why there should be a receiver for Esquimalt," said Mr. Lockley.

In further reply to Bishop Lloyd's main point—that the estimates were higher than the previous year and that expenditure also tended to be somewhat more than the estimates—Mr. Lockley drew attention to the fact that the municipality by charter had to look after certain vital services, that the government grant had been cut from $15,000 to something like $1,500, and that the estimates this year had thus to cover a wider field.

On the suggestion of Mr. Lockley, a motion was passed permitting the president and secretary of the ratepayers' association to go over the official accounts in the books with the municipal clerk, so that detailed information could be secured by both sides with regard to comparative estimates and expenditures.

New Bridge On Kootenay River

The Provincial Department of Public Works will start construction of a new bridge over the Kootenay River at Fort Steele after high water has passed, about the middle of August, it was announced here this morning.

The structure, to cost about $50,000, will be built by day labor and will replace the existing structure which has been condemned after twenty years of service.

The bridge will have three 120-foot Howe trusses with approaches and will be sixteen feet wide, the construction being of British Columbia fir timbers, creosoted.

Located on the main trunk highway between Cranbrook and Golden, Fort Steele is about eleven miles from Cranbrook.

BRIDGE MODEL TO BE SHOWN

On display at the meeting of the Engineering Institute of Canada in Vancouver this week will be a model of a 180-foot Howe truss span built by the engineers of the Provincial Department of Public Works.

The model, of the latest design, shows improvements in the construction worked out by the departmental officials with the longest possible economic span, using creosoted British Columbia fir timbers. Laminated pieces for the long bottom cords are a feature of the design.

Patrick Philip, Deputy Minister of Public Works, who will present a paper on "Highways of British Columbia," will describe in detail the construction of this type of span which is so much used on the highways of this province.

SUICIDES IN CANADA FEWER

Last Year 917 Took Own Life, Drop of 107; Homicides Also Less

The number of deaths in Canada from external violence in 1933 was 6,172, as compared with 6,645 in 1932 and 7,172 in 1931, according to figures released by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. In British Columbia there were 583 deaths due to external violence, or at a rate of 88.3 per 100,000 population. There were 111 suicides and thirteen homicides in this province.

Suicides throughout the Dominion last year numbered 917, as compared with 1,024 in 1932 and 1,004 in 1931. Homicides numbered 142 against 158 in 1932 and 172 in 1931.

Deaths from accidents totalled 5,114, as compared with 5,463 in 1932 and 5,906 in 1931. Deaths in automobile crashes totalled 984, or 19 per cent of all accidental deaths. There were 304 deaths on railroads and twenty-one in street car accidents. Fatalities in mines and quarries numbered seventy-one, and twenty-thee persons were killed in airplane and balloon accidents.

DELEGATE BACK FROM MONTREAL

Miss Frances Madeley Returns to Public Library; Attended Conference

Back from the American Library Association convention at Montreal and a six weeks' visit in eastern points, including Boston, Rochester, N.Y., and Portland, Me., Miss Frances Madeley of the Victoria Public Library arrived in Victoria yesterday to take up her duties at the local library.

Final organization of a Canadian Library Council to centralize and co-ordinate library work in the Dominion was undertaken at the Conference. John Riddington of the University of British Columbia library is the president and E. S. Robertson, Vancouver city librarian, the secretary-treasurer.

Work of this council will include preparation of a complete index for Canadian periodicals and the proper indexing and distribution of Canadian Government documents. Other important matters will be dealt with as they arise.

One of the features of the convention was the exhibition of the new "talking book" for the blind. The object resembles a gramophone and is designed to "play" books which have been done into records. It is built so that it can be operated by a blind person and it sells at a reasonable price.

Problems of professional and technical interest to librarians were aired at the conference and addresses were given on current social questions, the NRA and such like.

According to an estimate made at the end of the gathering, a sum of $150,000 was spent in Montreal by the delegates during the week's activities. Only rarely does the American Library Association meet in Canada.

Paradontitis, better known as pyorrhea, was widely distributed among ancient Egyptians whose bodies are now preserved as mummies.

WATER RATES ARE REDUCED

Tax Collections Up in Duncan; Firemen's Allowance Cut Restored

Special to The Times

Duncan, July 10.—All the aldermen were present and Mayor Prevost presided at a long session of the City Council on Friday night.

Reports were presented from the Duncan Utilities agreeing to a slight reduction in the water rates, which were agreeable to the members of the council. Mr. McDonald, manager of the Duncan Utilities, was present and explained details, advising the council that periodic analysis of the water used in Duncan was made and a recent analysis showed the water to be very pure.

A report was presented by the utilities company on a recent complaint by businessmen that there was considerable fluctuation in the voltage of the electricity. The company asserted everything possible was being done to maintain a steady voltage and a voltage regulator had been installed at a cost of $3,000. A check up of voltage in the powerhouse showed there was practically no variation, but a check in one of the complaining business houses revealed considerable variation of voltage. Old wiring being overloaded was the cause of that trouble. Improvements in the wiring system are being made.

ROAD SIGNS

The council decided to pay for the road signs erected on two approaches to Duncan.

The Orangemen were granted permission to hold a parade on July 12.

The mayor an daldermen were invited to the Orangemen's picnic, and the mayor has been asked to address the gathering.

TAX COLLECTION UP

The finance committee reported that 86 per cent of the year's taxes had been paid to June 30. Last year 81 7-0 per cent was paid in the same period.

Accounts totaling approximately $1,400 were ordered paid. The council also authorized the purchase of one of the city's own bonds for $1,000, bearing 6 per cent interest, at $1.01, for sinking funds.

The streets committee reported on the completion of parking space on the highway opposite the Alderlea lunch rooms.

ALLOWANCE CUT RESTORED

In 1931 Duncan's volunteer firemen took a voluntary cut in their allowance when fighting fires of 25 cents per hour. The old allowance of $1.00 per hour was restored by the council.

The council decided to take no action on a proposed amalgamation of the Nanaimo Light and Power Company and the Duncan Utilities until the solicitor makes a report.

HARD TIMES IN SASKATCHEWAN

In East Regina Parish 86 Per Cent of People on Relief, Says Rev. L. L. Grant

Eighty-six per cent of the people in his parish of East Regina are now on relief, said Rev. L. L. Grant of St. Matthew's Church, Regina, at the Empress Hotel yesterday. He and a friend, Edward Patterson, also of Regina, are staying at the hotel on a holiday.

"There is a tremendously high percentage on relief in Saskatchewan," stated Mr. Grant, in describing conditions in the province as "terrible." In Southern Saskatchewan, he said, there were at least 18,000 square miles of farming land absolutely dried up. No crops had been secured on it for four or five years.

In spite of these facts, however, Mr. Grant considered the prospects this year were better than they had been over the last few years.

In the hard-hit sections of Saskatchewan, the roads were impassable because of dust. In some cases the dust banks were as high as the fence posts. Under such dry conditions, the grasshoppers thrived and the efforts to check their depredations by poisoning were compared by Mr. Grant to attempts to dam up Niagara.

The Man on the Flying Trapeze

flies through the air with the greatest of ease

. . . a dangerous and difficult feat; one calling for speed, daring, clear vision and sureness of a very exceptional order. Day after day he brings a new thrill to thousands of eager onlookers—people of all ages, sex and variety.

Possibly our comparison may seem a little far-fetched but where could be found a more appropriate analogy for the daily newspaper? Difficult obstacles must be and are overcome daily.

SPEED? . . . Where else could you find another medium so gripping, so intense, so alive, that is published almost hourly? Where else is daring so ably exemplified as here where statements are published, upon which the continued existence of the paper itself depends?

. . . THE thoughts and ambitions of our people rely greatly upon the clear vision, foresight and keen judgment of men who formulate the policies of newspapers. In no other medium is the same inherent surety—giving to its advertisers and readers alike that spirit of confidence which marks the most powerful and influential advertising medium of modern life—THE DAILY NEWSPAPER.

WHAT NEXT FOR ADOLF HITLER? CHANCELLOR SITS ON HOT LID IN COUNTRY RENT BY UNREST

In 1923 Adolf Hitler was an obscure Austrian house painter (1) just beginning to become prominent as an oratorical exhorter of a modest "brown shirt" movement. His brown shirt membership began to grow as he continued feverish organization efforts with Josef Goebbels, an aide (2). The movement spread, gained force, and ten years later Hitler was replying to cheering tens of thousands from his Berlin hotel window (3). Scarcely ten years from his modest beginnings, this man was chancellor, and is shown (4) paying respects to venerable President Von Hindenburg (right) attended by Herman Goering, another aide, now the Premier of Prussia. Late last year came an ill omen, when Hitler, laying the cornerstone for the new Munich building, broke the hammer (5) with which he was completing the ceremony. But early this year new heights were reached when 2,000,000 Germans pledged allegiance to Hitler's regime in a gigantic ceremony at Berlin Tempelhof airport (6). Only a few weeks ago, Hitler made a hurried flight to Venice for secret conferences with Benito Mussolini, Italian Fascist leader (7) and there, it is believed, he received some pointed advice from the Italian dictator. To-day (8), victor over an insurgent faction, Adolf Hitler sits on the hot lid of a country that seethes with dissension and uncertainty.

FEW DONT'S FOR SUN-BATHERS

Canadian Press

New York, July 10.—Don't get your sun-tan after consuming buckwheat cakes or alcohol, advises Dr. Charles F. Pabst, chief dermatologist of a Brooklyn hospital, warning against the perils of the sun's rays. Here are the rules Dr. Pabst lays down for vacationists:

"Don't go out in the sun after eating a generous breakfast of buckwheat cakes or drinking highballs. Science has proved that such substances as quinine, alcohol, buckwheat, iron and iodine, when taken internally, render an individual extremely sensitive to the sun's rays.

"Beware of scanty bathing attire. If one-half or more of the body surface is sunburned with the formation of blisters, serious illness and even death may result. Even a mild sunburn that causes only redness is extremely dangerous if it affects the entire skin surface.

"Don't sprinkle perfume or toilet water on the skin before exposure to sunlight. This may produce a severe inflammation of the skin called perfume dermatitis."

Dr. Pabst added that going bareheaded in the sun did not increase the growth of hair, but usually caused the hair to become brittle and break off.

Weddings

BISHOP—BIGLEY

A quite but pretty wedding took place Saturday evening at 8.30 o'clock at St. Luke's Church, Cedar Hill, when the Rev. S. Ryall united in marriage Margaret Mary, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Bigley, late of Edmonton, and Robert Borden, son of the late Mr. Bishop and Mrs. J. H. Davies of Cowichan Lake.

The bride, in the absence of her father, entered the church to the strains of the wedding march on the arm of Mr. R. Ferguson of Shawnigan Lake. She was dainty in her white swagger suit trimmed with white fox and white hat, and corsage of carnations and sweet peas. Mr. J. H. Davies supported the groom. During the signing of the register the congregation sang "Lead Us, Heavenly Father, Lead Us."

A reception was held at the bride's home, Church Street, the guests being received by Mrs. Bigley, wearing a smart ensemble suit of silk crepe trimmed with white pique and black hat, while Mrs. J. H. Davies wore black silk velvet trimmed with egg-shell and georgette and a black picture hat.

The room was dainty with streamers and summer flowers, the supper table being centred with a two-tier wedding cake and decorated with tulle and tall candles in silver holders, while silver vases held tiny rose buds and sweet peas.

McINTYRE—FORSYTHE

The wedding of Edna Mae, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Forsythe, to Mr. Donald C. McIntyre of Medicine Hat, Alta., son of the late Mr. H. R. McIntyre, of Victoria, B.C., took place at 3.30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, July 4, at the home of the bride's parents, High Bluff, Man.

Dr. S. C. Murray of Kelwood performed the ceremony, which took place beneath an archway of peonies, bridal wreath and fern.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, entered the room to the strains of the "Bridal Chorus" from "Lohengrin", played by her sister, Miss Jean Forsythe. The bride's gown was a floor-length model of bird's egg blue self-plaid net, flaring smartly at the knees, with half shoulder cape and large bow trimming the waist at the back. She wore mittens of matching material, and carried a bouquet of Johanna Hill roses and lilies of the valley. Her hat was a wide-brimmed model of blue mohair, with a cluster of forget-me-nots marking one side. Both bride and groom were unattended.

The bride's table, centred with a three-tiered wedding cake, was decorated with streamers, pale pink tapers and roses. Later, Mr. and Mrs. McIntyre left by motor for the Pacific Coast, and on their return will reside at Medicine Hat, Alta. For traveling, the bride wore a tailored ensemble of peach crepe with white accessories.

STEARNS—MOODY

The marriage of Dorothy Kathleen Stooke, younger daughter of Dr. and Mrs. F. O. Moody, Government Street, and Mr. Frederick Marion Stearns, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Stearns of Burns Lake, B.C., was quietly solemnized last evening at the residence of the officiating minister, Rev. J. B. Rowell, in the presence of immediate relatives. Mr. and Mrs. Stearns will leave at the end of the month for Tintagel, near Burns Lake, where they will make their home.

MARK GOLDEN WEDDING DAY

Capt. and Mrs. C. P. Kinney "At Home" to Many Old Friends Yesterday

A host of congratulatory messages, together with floral gifts, from friends and relatives in Victoria and all parts of Canada and the United States, greeted Capt. and Mrs. C. P. Kinney yesterday on the occasion of their golden wedding anniversary. In addition many old friends called at their home, 1722 Bank Street, to tender congratulations in person, Capt. and Mrs. Kinney being "at home" during the afternoon and evening.

GIFT PRESENTED

Mrs. Kinney, becomingly gowned in grey flowered-georgette, and wearing a corsage bouquet of yellow rosebuds, was assisted in receiving by her daughters, Mrs. W. Wilkerson, Mrs. Louis Michelin and Miss Margaret Kinney, while her granddaughter, little Margaret Michelin, opened the door for the guests.

Refreshments were served from a buffet on which the three-tiered bridal cake, decorated in gold, occupied a prominent place. At the tea-table, which was covered with a handsome Italian cut-work cloth and centred with a silver basket of yellow roses and tall golden tapers in silver candlesticks, Mrs. M. Walker presided during the afternoon, and Mrs. M. Ward in the evening. Assisting in serving were Mrs. C. Kinney Jr., and Mrs. Ernest Kinney.

Among the many lovely gifts was a joint presentation from the family of the venerable couple, and from the Carne Rebekah Lodge, of which Mrs. Kinney is a member, came a beautiful bouquet of carnations and sweet peas.

MUSICAL NUMBERS

An informal musical programme enhanced the pleasure of the occasion, vocal solos being contributed by Mrs. Alice Cunningham and piano solos by Miss Mollie Shepherd in the afternoon, while in the evening Mrs. Herbert Dawe sang several songs and Miss Betty Sledge gave violin solos, which were much enjoyed.

Capt. and Mrs. Kinney, the former Annie Kelley, were married in Yarmouth, Nova Scotia, on July 8, 1884, and have been residents of this city for twenty-four years. They have three sons and three daughters: Mr. Chesley R. Kinney of Medford, Mass.; Mr. Charles A. Kinney and Capt. Ernest E. Kinney of Victoria; and Mrs. W. Wilkerson, Mrs. L. Michelin and Miss Margaret Kinney, also of this city.

Duncan, July 10.—The W.A. to the Cowichan branch of the Canadian Legion held a very enjoyable garden party at the home of Dr. and Mrs. G. W. Bissett on Saturday afternoon. Mrs. W. J. S. Hatter was in charge of the tombola, at which the prizes were won by Mrs. Fletcher, Miss L. Rumsby, Mrs. O. T. Smythe, George Jarvis, Hugh Savage, Mrs. A. E. Green, Mrs. A. J. Castle, Mrs. Dunkley, Mr. Mann, Mrs. F. Fielden, Mrs. John Fox and Mr. Waldie. Clock golf, in charge of Mrs. Carr-Hilton, was won by Mrs. John Fox, A. Tisdall and Cyril Firth.

The spinning jenny, managed by Mrs. and Miss Kennett, proved most popular with the little ones. The ice cream booth in charge of Mrs. G. Tisdall also did a good trade, and cooked food was soon all disposed of by Mrs. J. H. G. Palmer, Mrs. Gibb and Mrs. F. Hassell. Tea arrangements were in the capable hands of Mrs. Chadwick, assisted by Mrs. Goddard, Mrs. Lloyd and Mrs. E. S. Fox. Waitresses, under direction of Mrs. H. W. Mackenzie, were Mrs. W. R. Russell, Mrs. H. L. Waller and Mrs. J. E. Saunders. Tea tickets were sold by Mrs. Ryall, and Mrs. W. S. Henderson held the lucky tea ticket.

The fete was declared open by Mr. Bomford, the president of the Cowichan branch of the Legion, and Lorna Downman presented Mrs. Bissett with a bouquet of sweet peas. Mr. Bomford also announced the various items of the programme, which consisted of dances by Lorna Downman, Ellen Firth, Melba Anderson and Lois Anderson, pupils of Miss Carr-Hilton. Mrs. W. H. Purver, president of the W.A., had general supervision.

European Women's Clubs Trying to Remove National Bias From Readers

Canadian Press

New York, July 10.—Mrs. Curtis Brown of London, president of the European Federation of Women's Clubs, speaking as guest of honor before club women here, said:

"We try to bring about better histories, histories which will be fair rather than prejudiced. We attempt also to help alien women in Europe, many of whom are in desperate plights, unable to get passports. We hope to obtain passage of a bill permitting such women to obtain temporary passports by appearing before any consul while their status is being determined. We thought at first that the Montevideo Treaty might help these women, but we now fear it will not."

Mrs. Anna Steese Richardson, in a welcoming address, revealed some of the things she discovered on a recent tour of clubs throughout the country. "We are facing a renaissance of club life," she said. "Most women have no money for anything else, so they are coming back to the clubs, giving up bridge and country clubs and cocktail parties. They are going to be good little girls and the clubs will profit by their presence. Already you have won back 20,000 members you lost, and you have gained 9,000 new members.

"Another thing you have regained is courage. Time was when you dared not talk about prohibition or birth control, or even Democrats and Re- publicans—much less Socialists. Ye in your recent conference you talke about all these, and had the bes press and publicity you ever had.

"One last word of warning. Don' endorse any bill until you find ou if it affects your husband's busines When they try to tear down big busi- ness, and there are honest men i business, as well as dishonest. I thin the American business man is a gran institution. Stand by him."

LODGE WOMEN STAGE DRILLS

800 of Various Societies Give Exhibition at Toronto Celebration

Canadian Press

Toronto, July 10.—A spectacular triumph in the Toronto centennial celebration was the march of 800 women of fraternal societies at the exhibition grounds. The highlight of the drill was the performance given by three Eastern Star corps.

In each corps a small group of women in pure white carried Union Jacks with two Canadian marine flags and one United States flag. The striking color and the unanimity of action in the drill exercises drew burst after burst of applause from the throng.

The first groups appearing on the stage comprised the border cities drill team wearing brilliant red capes lined with black, the Women of the Moose in purple dresses with all white accessories, and the Ancient Order of Foresters in red and green capes and caps.

To the tune of "O Canada," the Daughters of Scotland in mauve or green caps and pierrot collars, the Canadian Daughters in red capes lined with green and gold tams, and the centre district of the Rebeccas in white, paraded on the stage.

The final groups to appear included the Shrine of Jerusalem, and the Macabees' ladies drill corps and veiled Taj Majhal patrol, ladies of the Orient.

Most unusual of the groups was the latter with their strange head-dress, their red shoes and boleros, purple pantaloons and gold sashes. The entire drill of the group was done with the arms folded and the movements were slow and mystical.

CHEMAINUS NURSE BRIDE

Miss Della D. Devitt Is Married to Leslie J. Inglis

Chemainus, July 10.—At the Church of St. Michael's and All Angels, Chemainus, on Saturday, July 7, at 1 p.m., Rev. Eric Robatham united in marriage Della Doreen, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. Devitt, to Leslie James Inglis, only son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Inglis, Fuller's Lake.

The bride, who entered the church with her father, who gave her away, wore a gown of white organza, with frills from the knees to the hem, and white organza picture hat. The bouquet was pink rosebuds, white heather and fern.

Miss Genevieve Devitt, sister of the bride, was the only attendant, wearing a form-fitting ruffled gown of orchid organdy, and white hat with lace crown and white lace gloves. She carried a bouquet of pastel sweet peas and fern. Richmond D. S. Ross supported the groom. Mr. Sandland presided at the organ.

A wedding breakfast for relatives only was held at the Horseshoe Bay Inn, covers being laid for fourteen at a table decorated with sweet peas in pastel colors, and a three-tier wedding cake centred the table, flanked with tall silver candlesticks with white tapers.

Among the wedding gifts were a standard lamp and mahogany smoker's set from Dr. Nash and the staff of Chemainus General Hospital, of which the bride has been a member for the past two years. When they return from their honeymoon they will live at Great Central Lake.

Miss Kathleen Porter, who is on the teaching staff of Alert Bay Indian School, spent the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Porter, Chemainus. Miss Porter left Sunday evening for Victoria, where she will attend summer school.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

FRUIT SOUPS START OFF A SUMMER MEAL RIGHT

By MARY E. DAGUE

A fruit soup is perfect as a beginning for a summer luncheon or dinner. Its rich color is pleasing to the eye and the faint fragrance of the fruit adds to its appetising effect.

If the idea of a fruit soup is new to you, perhaps a few suggestions regarding its serving will be welcome. Any service which would be correct for either bouillon or a fruit cup can be used for the chilled fruit soup. Bouillon cups chilled in the ice-box before filling, sherbet glasses, cocktail glasses or grapefruit sets all are permissible. The soups are eaten with a small-bowled soup spoon or a bouillon spoon.

These delicate fruit soups must be served very cold, because half the charm of the soup lies in its temperature.

Tart fruits are best suited to a chilled soup which above all must be restful and stimulating to the appetite. A combination of flavors is good and affords a variety of effects.

The thickening agent may be cornstarch, arrowroot, tapioca or even flour. Infinite care must be taken not to make the soup too thick. A firm, sticky concoction is far from inviting, but a slightly thick, syrupy consistency is cooling and delectable. These soups are not jellied to any suggestion of firmness; they are fruit juices thickened just enough to lift them from the cocktail class.

The following recipes may suggest other possibilities to you.

PLUM SOUP

One quart plums, 4 cups water, 1 stick cinnamon, ¾ cup sugar, 1 tablespoon arrowroot, few grains salt.

Arrowroot often is used for thickening sauces and puddings in place of cornstarch. It's especially desirable for children, since it is more easily digested than cornstarch.

Salt always is used to take care of the "fat" taste of whatever thickening is used.

Wash plums thoroughly. Put fruit into kettle with water and simmer until skins are broken and fruit is tender. Strain through jelly bag. Add cinnamon and sugar and bring to the boiling point. Add salt and stir in arrowroot mixed to a smooth paste with a little cold water. Cook until mixture thickens slightly. Remove cinnamon stick, chill and serve.

RED RASPBERRY SOUP

Two cups red raspberries, 2 cups currants, 3 cups water, ½ cup sugar, 2 tablespoons quick-cooking tapioca, few grains salt.

Stem currants. Wash berries and currants and put into kettle. Crush and simmer in water for twenty minutes. Strain through jelly bag and add sugar. Bring to the boiling point and add tapioca and salt. Cook until the mixture is transparent and syrupy. Chill and serve.

Blackberry and sour apple is a piquant mixture. All berries are inviting, used alone or in combination.

To-morrow's Menu

Breakfast: Fresh pears, cereal, crisp broiled bacon with cream, toast, milk, coffee.

SCOTS' PICNIC BIG SUCCESS

St. Andrew's and Caledonian Society Enjoy Outing to Sooke Flats

The slopes around Sooke flats resounded to the skirl of the pipes on Sunday when St. Andrew's and Caledonian Society held their annual picnic. Over 200 members and friends spent a most enjoyable time. Races were run by young and old, and a softball game between Caledonians and a picked team was closely contested. The weird decisions of the umpire, a visitor from Vancouver, had players and spectators mystified. The day was brought to a close with old-time dancing on the green to the music of the bagpipes.

Results of races were as follows:

Tiny tots' race—1, Betty McIntyre; 2, Mary McIntyre; 3, Mary Cunningham.

Your Baby and Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

MODERN BABIES SCANTILY CLAD IN SUMMER

Thirty-five or more years ago the babies, poor dears, despite the state of the thermometer, were attired all their waking moments in shirts, diapers, hose, lengthy petticoats, weighted with innumerable rows of heating tucks and embroideries, barrowcoats and perhaps a shawl for added protection.

CUSTOMS CHANGE

Twenty-five years ago the customs were relaxed to the point of shorter garments, even for the newborn. Shirts, petticoats and dresses, plainer and terribly "modern," so we thought, were still used to protect the baby from draughts and colds. On the hottest day we removed the baby's petticoat and dress with fear, and allowed her to lie encased in a part wool band and a part wool shirt. No wonder mothers wrestled with prickly heat and cross babies and summer complaint.

Now, the up-to-the-minute baby luxuriates in as few clothes as a savage. He lies all day and night, from the age of a few weeks, attired in only his immaculate diaper. The thought of wrapping baby in any collection of garments is as abhorrent to the modern mother as the thought of her baby lying "Naked: Heaven preserve it!" was to the old-fashioned mother.

The following question calls up visions of that baby of an older era entrenched behind his breeze-impenetrable barriers. "During the following months what clothes should the baby wear outdoors? If I carry her to town, should her face be protected with a veil? Is wind harmful to her. The weather will undoubtedly be warm."

Your last prophecy is, I am afraid, all too true. In view of that, your one rule of conduct is to keep baby cool. No clothes, though if you must take baby into town a thin cotton dress is permissible over the diapers. Bare legs and feet are enormously in style for the young things from birth up to the barefoot, sandal period. You may have my leaflet, "Dressing Infants and Children in Summer," for a self-addressed stamped envelope sent with your request. Hot winds are apt to burn a baby's tender skin as much as sun. Protect him from them not by veils, but by keeping him at home.

DONNA of the BIG TOP

"Grandfather—!"

"Oh, yes, Maddie. When the Lord first sent my affliction to me I was bitter. It didn't seem fair when I'd tried to be a righteous man and never knowingly harmed anyone, but Emerson—I think it was Emerson who wrote it, but anyhow it was some writer—said one of the truest things in the world. If you lose something, he said, you gain something. My blindness was really a blessing. I've seen more'n I could ever have seen with eyes alone, and the seeing has given me understanding—understanding of people's intentions. I figure, in spite of the adage about hell's pavements, that when the day of judgment comes we're going to be judged more by our intentions than what we did."

"I hope so," Donna murmured fervently.

Often the old man's voice trailed off in the midst of a sentence and then Donna crept noiselessly from the room to go about her household chores. They were many and varied, but they were a blessing inasmuch as they tired her physically and brought sleep. Idle hours would have left time for tortured thoughts.

When she received no answer from the letter to Con and found no reference to Madeline's death in the newspapers a feeling of security settled over Donna. It was too much to hope that the truth need never be known, and yet Madeline was dead. With the exception of Con David, no one in the world knew that the girls had exchanged identities, and it was doubtful that Con knew the whole story.

Mrs. Planter had ceased to be a menace. There was the question of the property, but, with Madeline dead, Bill would be Grandfather's next of kin and Donna assured herself that, should the property come to her, she would see that it was turned over to Bill.

It was unfortunate that just when she had gained a measure of peace and the shock of Madeline's death was lessened her letter addressed to Con David should have been returned to her. Doubly unfortunate because it passed through Bill's hands before it reached her.

As he handed the letter to her there was an expression on Bill's face that Donna had never seen before—suspicion, jealousy, curiosity and a desire to hide all three.

"Thanks," she stammered, conscious that her cheeks were flaming.

"Who is this man?" Bill asked, trying to appear casual when she put the letter on the dresser.

"Why, he was the—you remember, he had the animal act in the circus."

"I remember the night I took you to supper after the show and you admitted he wanted to marry you," he answered.

"Oh, that," she laughed. "I was kidding."

"Were you? I also remember something your partner said. Listen, Madeline, perhaps it's none of my business what you did before we were married. If you've chosen to lie to me—I can overlook that, too, but if there's still something between you and this fellow—"

"Bill!" she recoiled as though he had struck her.

"Well, why are you writing him?"

"This is the first time I have," she said, "and you see the letter came back to me."

"But why a first time? Why write at all?"

"Why—why—I hadn't heard from Mad — from Donna for some time and—" In her wild attempt to find a logical excuse without admitting the truth, names became twisted on her tongue and her voice thickened.

"May I see the letter?"

"There's nothing in it, Bill. Nothing that is disloyal to you, I swear it—"

"Then let me see it." He moved towards her. She snatched up the letter and crumpled it in her fist.

"No. If you doubt me and have to have proof—"

"Give me that letter!"

"No!"

Afterward she was to regret the action bitterly, but as he reached towards her, whether to take the letter from her or with a gesture of command she did not stop to realize, she tore the envelope into shreds and flung them into the open fireplace.

"You know," he said slowly, his face almost as white as her own, "that gives me the right to believe anything."

He swung about abruptly and left the room. Donna stood horror stricken as the import of his words forced themselves upon her. For months she had been prepared to face a crisis, but not an accusation of this kind.

That Bill, who possessed every atom of her love, who was so much a part of her that sometimes she felt she had only begun to live and breathe after knowing him, should for one moment think she cared for another man, and that man Con David, was unbelievable.

She gave a strangled sob, ran to the door and called, "Bill! Bill, I'll tell you what was in the letter; Bill!"

But the front door slammed with a jar that shook the house and the man missed the explanation she would have made.

CHAPTER XXX

Bill had a bad hour alone. He had had to fight his jealousy before. Many times, watching Donna working about the kitchen, he had contrasted her present life with her past, and a little green devil perched on his shoulder, whispering things he strove to put out of his mind. Often he had marvelled that anyone so lovely, so wholly desirable, should have given herself to him.

But his jealousy before had not been turned toward any individual. Now he knew that his wife—the glorious creature who spelled the heights of heaven for him — had written a letter to another man, a man she had once been accustomed to seeing daily.

Striding along, the raw wind whipping color into his cheeks, Bill fought his battle. Fresh air did much to give him a clearer view of the situation. If he refused to believe her explanation that she had never written the man before and that the letter concerned her former partner, Bill would have to disbelieve everything she had said in the past. He would have to acknowledge their whole marriage a failure.

And if she had cared for this fellow, why had she married Bill? Looking at the matter sanely, he felt ashamed of himself, and when he returned to the house at five o'clock he was contrite and ready to beg forgiveness. Thus again Donna lost the opportunity to tell him that Madeline had married Con, and that Con was now a widower.

It was not easy for Bill to apologize. Humble pie did not set well with him but, once he made up his mind to do anything unpleasant, he went through with it.

Donna was frying chicken in the kitchen, a rather wan smile on her face as she closed her ears to Minnie's gabble. When Bill walked in unceremoniously and said he wanted to speak to her at once she anticipated another scene.

"I'm busy, Bill. Wait until I finish this."

"Can't. Let Minnie do it."

Donna gave Minnie the fork she had been using to turn the fragrant brown morsels and stepped into the pantry which opened into a hall leading to the dining-room.

Bill waited until the swinging door closed. Then he caught her in his arms and crushed his mouth over hers. "I'm sorry," he mumbled, "I was a cad. Forgive me?"

"Oh Bill!" Donna sobbed happily. "Oh, Bill, I wish I had showed you the letter! It was horrid of me to tear it up! I should have—"

"No, you did the right thing. I was a brute to doubt you. Common sense should have told me there couldn't be anything to it and that you never cared for that fellow. If you'll forgive me I'll never be jealous again."

"Of course I forgive you! And I want to tell you what was in the letter—"

"I don't want to hear it. I don't deserve to know."

Confession at that moment, with Bill's arms holding her close, Bill's lips against her hair, would have been very sweet and soul-cleansing and would have prevented many future heartaches. But Bill's attitude, his desire to be generous and chivalrous prevented confidences and Donna slipped from his embrace with the words unspoken.

He followed her into the kitchen and watched her continue preparing supper, feeling a glow of satisfaction in having mastered an ugly passion and a pride in her beauty and cleverness.

"You know, Honey," he said as she piled the chicken on a blue platter and stirred cream and flour into the browned butter to make gravy, "now that grandpop is better we ought to get out a little. All work and no play—you know the rest of it. Why, it's been week and weeks since we've seen a picture show or had any kind of amusement. What say we take the old bus and go into town tonight? Sometimes they have pretty good pictures at the Elite."

"It'd like it," Donna answered. "Do you think grandfather would mind?"

"He'd be the first to urge us to go. You know Miss Perkins looks after him as if he were a baby and he'll be asleep long before we get home. Hurry up with supper, then doll up your prettiest and we'll go off on a spree."

She smiled, loving him the more for his ability to cast aside trouble and to play, small boy fashion.

FAMED HUNTER TO BROADCAST

Frank "Bring 'em Back Alive" Buck Will Take Place of Amos 'n' Andy

Frank "Bring 'Em Back Alive" Buck, world-famous wild animal hunter and adventurer, will go on the air Monday, July 16, to dramatize for the radio audience a narrative of adventures in the jungle, based upon the actual experiences of Buck himself during his twenty-three-year career of "bringing them back alive."

During the absence on vacation of Amos 'n' Andy, Buck will be heard daily except Saturday and Sunday over an NBC-KGO network in the periods previously occupied by the celebrated blackface characters. His programme will be heard in the west at 7 p.m. P.S.T. He comes to the air, however, under a long-term contract with the Pepsodent Company, sponsors of Amos 'n' Andy, and upon the return of Correll and Gosden from their vacation on September 17, he will continue to be heard over the network facilities of the National Broadcasting Company at a period to be assigned later.

Known throughout the world as the man who has taken for his occupation not the shooting of wild animals but the infinitely more hazardous task of capturing them and bringing them back to civilization alive, whether they be man-eating tigers, lions, elephants, orangutans or twenty-eight-foot pythons, Buck has led a life of perilous adventure since, in 1911, he made his first trip to the South American jungles. Even during his boyhood in Texas his chief sport was the trapping of animals.

UNCLE WIGGILY'S DOOR BOAT

By HOWARD R. GARIS

Laughing, shouting, jumping over one another and kicking up the sand, Uncle Wiggily's bunny rabbit children, with some of their friends and neighbors who had come on vacation with them, were having fun at the seashore.

"Oh, look at the pretty clam shell I found!" cried Baby Bunty as she picked something up near the edge of the splashing ocean.

"Let me have it!" called Jingle.

All of a sudden Baby Bunty began to cry.

"What's the matter?" asked Uncle Wiggily who, after having helped his wife and Nurse Jane to get settled in the seashore cottage, had hopped down to the sand to watch the children at play. "What's the matter, Baby Bunty? Why are you crying?"

"She just found a nice clam shell," said Jangle, "and Jingle wanted it and I guess that's why Bunty cried."

"No, no, Unkie Wig!" sobbed Bunty. "That isn't why I'm crying. It's 'cause when I picked up the clam shell there was a clam in it and he bit me! The clam's biting me now! Oh, boo hoo!"

Uncle Wiggily quickly hopped to Bunty, who was jumping about with the clam shell dangling from one paw. Surely enough, there was a live clam in the shell the little orphan rabbit had picked up on the beach. And when the clam closed its two shells together, Bunty's paw was caught.

FREES SHELL LOOSE

"But stand still and I'll help you!" said Uncle Wiggily for Bunty was skipping about like a Jumping Jack. With a stick the rabbit gentleman forced apart the clam's shells and then Bunty's paw was free.

"After this," said poor little Baby Bunty, "I'm going to look inside a shell before I pick it up off the beach."

"That's a good idea," agreed Uncle Wiggily. "Now don't get into any more trouble. You came here to have fun."

"I'm having fun, Daddicums! Look!" called Buster. He had dug a big hole in the sand and now sat on the edge of it, both hind paws down in the hole. All of a sudden the sand caved in. "Oh, I'm caught!" cried Buster.

Then it wasn't so much fun for him, and he howled until his father hurried to him with a shovel and dug the little rabbit boy loose.

Hardly had this been done before Jackie Bow Wow, the puppy, who had dug such a deep hole in the sand that it was filled with water, began to bark loudly.

"What's the matter?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"Oh, my little brother Peetie fell in the hole and he's down under the water!" whined Jackie.

"My goodness!" shouted Uncle Wiggily. He ran to the hole, reached down in it and pulled Peetie safely out. Peetie wasn't hurt but he was all wet, so Mr. Longears put him in the sun to dry.

WANT BOAT RIDE

"I think, Wiggy, my dear," said the rabbit gentleman's wife, after this, "that you had better take the children for a boat ride. They are so excited, this first day of vacation at the shore, there is no telling what they will do next. Take them for a boat ride."

"I have no boat," said Uncle Wiggily.

"You can easily make one out of a door," said the rabbit lady.

"Out of a what?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"Not out of a WHAT—out of a DOOR!" laughed Mrs. Longears. "There is an old, wooden door out back of the cottage. It will hold you and the children as well as a boat would and it can't tip over."

"Oh, Unkie Wig!" shouted Baby Bunty. "Take us for a ride on the door boat!"

"I will if we can get it into the water," said the bunny gentleman.

This wasn't hard to do with many bunny paws to help carry it down to the beach. It was a big wide door, and when it had been pushed into the water it floated like a raft.

"All aboard!" shouted Buster, and he and the other rabbits and many other animal children climbed on.

"Take them for a ride, Wiggy!" said his wife.

"What shall I use for a sail?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"Take this old sun umbrella," said the rabbit lady, pointing to a large red one stuck in the sand.

GREAT FUN

"The very thing!" said Mr. Longears. He jumped on the door boat with the open umbrella, the wind blew on it and soon they were all having a fine ride in the ocean water. The animal children laughed and shouted with glee, watching the fishes swimming around them.

And if you will stop the safety pin from trying to catch the gold fish by his whiskers, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and the clam gull.

ASK CHECK ON HUNTERS

Duncan, July 10.—A petition is being circulated here asking the provincial government to enforce regulations respecting the shooting on and over highways. The petitioners seek to have these regulations operative in the unorganized districts as well as in the municipality of North Cowichan. Several near accidents have been reported due to careless shooting by hunters.

STARS IN PICTURE AT DOMINION

BARRISTERS URGE CHANGES

B.C. Appeal Court Sittings and Other Subjects Are Debated

Vancouver, July 10.—Recommendation for amendment of the Court of Appeal Act to provide alternate sittings of the court in Vancouver and Victoria every month, except July and August, with the privilege for the appellant to set his appeal down for either court, was adopted by the Law Society of British Columbia in convention here yesterday.

Such procedure, it was believed, would avoid the delay occasioned out-of-town lawyers waiting for the cases to be heard and save that expense to the litigants.

The use of factums in the Court of Appeal was also endorsed. A factum, where the points of an argument and cases are briefly outlined, would not only be a convenience to the parties concerned, but also to the judges of the Court of Appeal, it was stated.

An amendment to the County Court rules was recommended to authorize service of plaint and summons by double registered mail through the province. Costs of service in remote districts have been out of all proportion to the amount involved, it was pointed out.

A standard agency fee was set at one-third for the forwarder instead of one-half as heretofore.

BUREAUCRACY

Alleged growth of bureaucracy in government was condemned by the lawyers, who stated they found their services increasingly hampered by arbitrary government officials. The benchers were asked to appoint a committee to investigate this matter and report at the next annual meeting.

In this connection, criticism was leveled at the Workmen's Compensation Board, the Water Board and the Succession Duty Department.

OFFICERS CHOSEN

J. W. deB. Farris, K.C., was unanimously elected treasurer of the society for the ensuing year. He succeeds A. H. MacNeill, K.C. Both are attending the Privy Council in London on British Columbia appeals.

Hon. N. W. Rowell, K.C., president of the Canadian Bar Association, was unable to attend. The principal speaker was Mr. Justice M. A. Macdonald of the Court of Appeal, whose subject was "Democracy."

W. C. Moresby, K.C., Victoria, outlined the history of the Bar in British Columbia and the founding of the Law Society. The senior practising lawyer in the province is J. Stuart Yates, Victoria, and the senior practising lawyer from among the benchers is L. G. McPhillips, K.C.

A matter which has been a bone of contention for some time, the publishing or discontinuing of the British Columbia reports, was settled when the convention adopted a report for their continuance.

ACADEMY SUGGESTED

Decline in democratic forms of government was attributed by Mr. Justice M. A. Macdonald in his address to the supplanting of trained men by demagogues.

Although education had never been so diffuse in the world as to-day, the speaker claimed there had not been a sufficient attempt to qualify for citizenship through a study of public problems.

Discussing municipal government, he asked what businessman, with one one-hundredth of the capital would select men to run his affairs such as hold municipal offices. Untrained men should be vigorously combated, he stated.

He suggested a political academy, or a department of the university, presided over by an elder statesman, where training would be imparted in the new democracy.

BRITISH RACER INVITED TO U.S.

Daytona Beach, Fla., July 10.—Mayor Armstrong yesterday sent a letter inviting Freddy Dixon, British racer who plans to make an attempt to break Sir Malcolm Campbell's 272 mile an hour record, to come to Daytona Beach for the record attempt, and promised him every possible aid.

Dixon is reported to have obtained Kaye Don's "Silver Bullet" and to be rebuilding it for the attempt.

The mayor also wrote Sir Malcolm asking him to decide definitely whether to come here or go to Dry Lake in Utah for his next speed effort in which he hopes to reach 300 miles an hour.

COMING TO DOMINION

The dialogue of the film, "Little Miss Marker," which will come to the Dominion Theatre on Friday, and which features Adolphe Menjou, Charles Bickford and little Shirley Temple, contains the colorful jargon of the men who bet on horse races.

Gee-gees, giddyaps, plugs, skates and bangtails are their names for the sleek horses that go drumming down the track.

"Saw-buck" is a $10 bet. Other words typical to the bookmaker's language are "high-spot"—an office operated by a big money better; "hand book"—one who has no office but makes his deals in a notebook.

ANNUAL CAMP IS CONCLUDED

Alpinists Spend Pleasant Outing in District Around New Mountain Home

New quarters of the Vancouver Island section of the Alpine Club of Canada were officially opened on July 1, at the commencement of the group's annual ten-day camp at the Lake of the Seven Hills, which concluded yesterday.

The opening of the new hut, which replaced the one burned early this year, was the chief event of the camp, which was described as one of the most successful ever staged by the local branch. C. L. Harrison, chairman; W. H. Dougan and C. H. Rutherford took part in the opening ceremonies.

An active week's programme was participated in by the members, which included outings to popular spots within a radius of a few miles. About thirty members registered at the camp.

A large party spent the first night in the open on Mount Empress, while on the Monday small expeditions were conducted around the district, including trips across the lake on Stanley Potter's raft. Two nights with nature were spent during a visit to Mount Survey, via Leechtown.

Everett to Play Ball on Saturday

Everett Merchants, one of the classiest ball teams in the Pacific Northwest, will perform here on Saturday in two games at the Athletic Park. The afternoon fixture will start at 2.30 o'clock and the nightcap at 6.15. Officials of the Senior Baseball League stated to-day they had not yet decided on the team to oppose Everett.

'MANDALAY' AT THE DOMINION

Thrilling Story With Oriental Background Opens Local Engagement To-day

A tale of thrilling adventure with colorful romance comes to the screen of the Dominion Theatre to-day with the First National picture, "Mandalay."

It is set in the picturesque background of the Orient, in that section of Burma where the whites come in contact with the natives. The romance does not concern Orientals, however, though there are many of them appearing in the production, but the white man, and particularly that breed of soldier of fortune who turns to gun running, traffic in women and other illicit trades.

CAPITOL BOOKS "CRIME DOCTOR"

Leaving beaten tracks, RKO-Radio Pictures has produced something that is said to be entirely new in the way of detective dramas. This is "The Crime Doctor," which comes to the Capitol Theatre to-morrow, and in which Otto Kruger, Karen Morley and Nils Asther are co-featured.

Neither a gangster or a mystery story, "The Crime Doctor" adopts the novel system of taking the audience into complete confidence. A murder is depicted from its inception in the killer's mind to the final dramatic solution of the case, and as the story unfolds not a step is withheld from the audience. The authorities working on the crime are in the dark, and the development of the plot becomes a game of "hot and cold," with suspense reaching a tense pitch as the hunt progresses.

However, the final sharp surprise, which has nothing to do with the solution of the murder case, is said to be reserved for the audience.

PLAYHOUSE THEATRE

Production of "Bottoms Up" by B. G. (Buddy) DeSylva for Fox Film brought together the oldest and youngest song-writing teams, in point of experience, if not age, of the members of the teams.

Gus Kahn and Dick Whiting, with more than 150 smash hits to their credit, are joined by Harold Adamson and Burton Lane, who but recently have become prominent with their song hits. Together they have contributed four song hits to "Bottoms Up," which is at the Playhouse Theatre to-day.

COLUMBIA THEATRE

Kent Taylor, featured in Paramount's "Death Takes a Holiday," now at the Columbia Theatre, has had the most rapid rise to film fame in recent screen history, according to Director Mitchell Leisen. Taylor, who came to Paramount less than a year ago from extra ranks, was first assigned a part in a western film, "The Mysterious Rider."

ARMY PUTTEES CALLED UNFIT

May Be All Right For Indians, But Not For Whites, Says General

Puttees may be all right for Indians, but for white Canadian soldiers they are worse than ridiculous.

A veteran from Duncan, who had gone to war as batman and groom with the 1st troop of Strathcona Horse from Moosomin, Sask., appeared before the tribunal to complain of the varicose veins which he said he was carrying in his legs as a souvenir of the war. Shortly after he arrived overseas the varicose veins developed, the condition being aggravated by the Canadian army puttees he had to wear, he claimed.

"I was never crippled up before, but I have been ever since," the man said.

"Personally, I think puttees are quite unsuitable for white men to wear," said Sir Richard. "They may be all right for Indians in India, who have straight up and down legs, but they are not suitable for our white men."

EYESIGHT CLAIM

A Victoria man who had done most of the hair-line finishing painting on automobiles and carriages before the war, told the tribunal the war had so ruined his eyesight and nerves that he could do no fine work after he came back. He had been receiving a pension of $22.50 a month until last March, when without any examination Ottawa had cut him down to $7.50 a month. Then in March after an examination his pension was cut off altogether. The reason given was that after paying the pension since the war, there had been a change in the diagnosis of the man's case, with the eye specialists now saying that the man had the trouble before he went to war and that it would have progressed just as much by this time if he had remained in civil life and had not gone overseas.

"The war also gave me nerves," the veteran went on. "When I went to war I weighed 148 pounds; but when I came out of it I weighed only 120 pounds, and I couldn't see to do any fine painting work."

The tribunal to-day considered cases of eight veterans. All to-day's cases were listed as changed in basis of entitlement.

Sessions will continue here daily until the end of the week, when the tribunal will move to Nanaimo.

Then we draw six out. These six are paid. If we have any more of your impudence you won't be in the shuffle at all!'"

Larger Enrolment At Summer School

Teachers Taking Refresher Courses Get Down to Work To-day After Formal Opening Yesterday; New Primary Device Demonstrated

After their official opening ceremonies yesterday, at which Hon. George M. Weir, Minister of Education, officiated, teachers taking Summer School courses at Victoria High School swung into their actual curricula to-day. Approximately 200 are in attendance at the school at present, and about fifty more are expected during the week. Last year the enrolment was about 150.

Teacher-students, from points as far distant as Alberta and Saskatchewan, are attending the session. The majority come from Victoria and other parts of British Columbia.

In addition to their regular work, the students will enjoy social and athletic programmes, including dancing and swimming at the Crystal Garden as well as life-saving at the Garden and tennis at the Victoria High School.

DEVICE DEMONSTRATED

Of particular interest at this morning's session of the primary classes was a demonstration by the inventor, Miss A. Ripley, teacher at the Indian Residential School, Alert Bay, of her Twinkletoes primary device. The contraption is in the form of a little house with a slide door. When the door flashes open it reveals to the child an object and the spelled name of it for reading purposes. By means of it the primary student is aided in acquiring more rapid recognition of words or, in the case of arithmetic, numerical combinations.

STUDENTS COMMENDED

At the formal opening of the courses yesterday, Dr. Weir commended the teachers for the interest they showed in their profession by sacrificing their holidays to take refresher classes.

As outside features, John Kyle, director of the school, announced yesterday Miss Marian Richardson, head of the art department of the London County Council schools, would lecture on "The Teaching Art in High Schools." Her talks here will be given from July 30 to August 10. She has been brought to Canada at the invitation of the Canadian National Gallery.

Apart from the instructional end, the students started games to-day with the election of representatives to the athletic body. To-morrow they will hold a dance at the Crystal Garden, following a garden party at "Schuhuum," the home of Miss Agnew, in the afternoon, under the auspices of the League of Nations Society.

Miss L. G. Bollert, B.A., is taking charge of the primary grade course in which the latest developments in that study are being explained to teachers.

RURAL COURSE

Thirty-five have enrolled for the course for teachers in rural and Indian schools, over which Gerald H. Barry, Dominion inspector of Indian schools, is presiding.

H. H. MacKenzie, B.A., will take charge of the English section, while Arthur Anstey, B.A., is caring for British history.

Courses in geography are also being conducted, while special attention is being given to art under the direction of W. P. Weston, art master. Mrs. Ian D. D. Uthoff, Dip. G.S.A., is in charge of the applied art section.

Miss E. M. Coney, music teacher, and F. T. C. Wickett, A.R.C.O., are directing vocal and choral music, while Heber Nasmyth, instructor in music at the State University College, Pullman, Washington, is conducting class lessons in the art of singing.

Orchestral music is being taught by Smyth Humphreys, A.R.C.M.

NEW METHODS

Modern changes in subject-matter and methods in teaching arithmetic are being explained by A. E. C. Martin, B.Sc., while T. B. Hall, B.A., is covering the technique of teaching as well as reading.

Mrs. Wilfrid Ord, F.T.C.L., M.R.S.T., is in charge of speech-training and the art of expression, while Miss Nancy Ferguson, B.A., will teach folk dancing.

V. O. Pritchard is head of the school service course, and N. de Bertrand Lugrin, practical short story writing.

S. J. Clack Wins Putting Tourney

Instead of having the usual weekly luncheon, members of the Kiwanis Club to-day went to the Victoria Golf Club, where a putting competition was the feature on the conclusion of lunch. S. J. Clack, the president of the club, toured the nine-hole putting green twice for a total of 34 and carried off the honors. Victor King was second with 35 and Fred McGregor third with 36. Ken Ferguson secured the prize for the most holes-in-one.

FUNERAL TO-MORROW

The funeral of Mrs. Emily Elizabeth Moses will take place to-morrow afternoon, leaving Hayward's B.C. Funeral Chapel at 1 p.m., proceeding to Holy Trinity Church, Patricia Bay, where service will be held by Rev. T. M. Hughes, at 2.30 o'clock, after which the remains will be forwarded to Vancouver for cremation.

Pastor William Offiler of Bethel Temple, Seattle, and radio pastor of Station KXA, will be the speaker this evening and to-morrow evening, at 8 o'clock, at the Pentecostal Assembly, 1318 Broad Street. Pastor Offiler will be assisted by Arlond Wagell, who will tell of interesting happenings in the jungles of Borneo, where he has served for three years as a missionary. The public is cordially invited to attend these services.

DISCUSS VISIT OF ORCHESTRA

Gyros Vote to Help Sponsor Two Concerts By Seattle Symphony This Winter

With the Gyro Club already voting to participate in the sponsoring of the Seattle Symphony Orchestra for an afternoon and evening concert here in the winter season, musical people of the city are already looking forward to a proposed visit by the noted organization some time in November.

As pointed out by Major Cuthbert Holmes at the Gyro luncheon yesterday, the Seattle Symphony Orchestra has greatly improved over two years ago when Basil Cameron took over the skeleton orchestra left by Karl Krueger when he went away. The organization now consists of seventy pieces, and its recent occasional radio programmes from the Sound City have met with wide approval here.

The question under consideration now by the Service Clubs' Council, which brought the Vancouver Symphony Orchestra here last year at a small loss, relates to guarantees and expenses. It is understood unofficially that the Seattle orchestra wishes a guarantee of $750 for its musicians, an allowance of $600 for expenses in the city, and the first $250 of the net profits. Other profits it would divide evenly with the Service Clubs' Council. These figures cover the matinee and evening concerts, the former specially for the children at remarkably low prices.

DECIDE DEATH WAS ACCIDENT

Seventeen-year-old Driver Absolved in Fatality of C. Smith, Dunedin St.

When Charles Smith, 364 Dunedin Street, was crossing the intersection of the Gorge Road and Dunedin Street on Saturday evening last, he either became confused or misjudged his distance from a car that was approaching on Gorge Road and walked into the side of it, receiving injuries which caused his death, it was revealed at the coroner's inquest at McCall Brothers Funeral Home this morning. The verdict was accidental death.

Several witnesses were called, including two eyewitnesses, Simon John Newcomb, seventeen, of Monument, Oregon, driver of the car, and Mrs. Helen Porter, Albert Head Road, Saanich, who was a passenger in the front seat of the car.

Dr. E. L. McNiven testified Mr. Smith had died at 10.45 o'clock Saturday night, about two and three-quarters hours after the accident, from a fracture at the base of the skull.

Constable Samuel McKenzie told of attending the accident with the police patrol and gave measurements indicating the position of the body when he found it. Rev. Dr. W. G. Wilson identified the body.

EYEWITNESSES' STORIES

Jack White, driver of a truck behind the Newcomb car, an eyewitness of the accident, said he had seen Mr. Smith step from the curb, hesitate, then start to run across the street, running into the side of the Newcomb car. His evidence was corroborated by Mrs. Ross and Ronald Russell who were also in a car behind the Newcombs.

Simon Jack Newcomb said as Mr. Smith stepped from the curb he had blown his horn. The driver thought Mr. Smith was going to stop when he did not lessen his speed. Mr. Smith looked up and then started to run. Newcomb swerved to the left to avoid Mr. Smith but could not and Mr. Smith struck near the rear mudguard. In his opinion Mr. Smith was either confused or failed to judge correctly the distance between himself and the car. The boy testified he had been driving the car for a year.

Mrs. Porter foresaw the accident and turned her head away when she realized Mr. Smith was going to strike the car, she testified.

In charging the jury, Coroner E. C. Hart explained that gross carelessness must be evident before an indictment could be brought in. The jury was only out about three minutes.

After the inquest the driver of the car was fined $5 when he pleaded guilty in the Juvenile Police Court to a charge of operating a car without a driver's license.

APPEAL JUDGES STILL AT WORK

It May Be Legal Vacation Season, But They Are Plugging Away at List

Judges of other courts and lawyers may be vacationing but the five judges of the B.C. Court of Appeal are plugging away at the list of cases sent up from the lower courts in this the second week of what should be their official holidays.

The court opened its summer sitting here on June 5 and has been sitting every court day since. Judgments in all of the heavy cases have been reserved, on which the justices have been working during their time off the bench. Judgments in some of the cases are expected when the court concludes its sitting. On the other cases the judges will work during the rest of the summer to deliver judgments at the opening of the autumn sitting which begins in October.

With three more cases yet to be heard, efforts are being made to conclude the present sitting this week.

The judges to-day began consideration of the appeal of Al Walters Ltd., W. J. Levin and A. Matoff against the judgment of Mr. Justice D. A. McDonald in the Supreme Court awarding Tooke Bros. Ltd., $2,282.35 judgment against them. The case involves guarantees on purchases from Tooke Bros.

Judge Lampman's judgment in the suit of Moore-Whittington Lumber Co. Ltd., against George S. Lowe, executor of the Josiah Derwent Brown estate, and John Valdimar Johnson, was sustained Monday afternoon against the appeal brought by H. A. Beckwith, counsel for the Moore-Whittington Company.

D. A. McIntosh Has Possible To Lead In B.C.R.A. Match

Veteran Vancouver Shot Scores 35 in First Stage of New Westminster Match as Annual Rifle Meet Gets Under Way at Heals; Good Entry

(By STAFF REPRESENTATIVE)

Heals Rifle Range, July 10.—Registering seven bull's eyes for a possible 35 in the first stage of the Westminster Corporation Match fired at the 200-yard range, D. A. McIntosh, veteran marksman and a member of the Vancouver Rifle Association, set the pace here this morning as the fifty-sixth annual prize meet of the British Columbia Rifle Association got under way. Ten other marksmen, with 34s, were right on the heels of the mainland shot.

The second stage of the match was being fired this afternoon at the 500-yard range. Aggregate scores at the two ranges will decide the winner. Capt. D. Fyvie, Sixteenth Canadian Scottish, won the event last year.

LEADING SHOTS

Approximately ninety of the leading rifle shots in the province, including Mrs. Hugo Rayment and Miss Gwen Spencer, fair sex shots from Victoria, are gathered for the event. The mainland contingent numbers about thirty, while the remainder of the field is from Victoria, Kamloops, Penticton and Ganges.

Conditions this morning were good except for a changing light, but as lunch time arrived the slight left breeze increased and made shooting a little more difficult.

Major Roger Monteith is senior range officer, with Major S. Henson as his assistant. A greater portion of the range work this year is being done by members of the non-permanent militia.

Master Gunner Collings, secretary of the British Columbia Rifle Association, is in complete charge of the meet, while Capt. F. R. Wright, veteran statistical officer, is in charge of the statistical hut.

NEW TROPHIES

New trophies added to the already large and beautiful selection include the Rayment Shield, presented by Mrs. Hugo Rayment, herself a keen rifle shot; the Lt.-Col. W. C. Woodward Trophy; the Lt.-Col. R. G. Parkhurst Trophy; the Logana Rose Bowl, presented by the Growers' Wine Company, and a new presentation, the ninth made, by the British Columbia Electric Railway Company.

Gunner Boyd, youthful member of the Fifth B.C. Coast Brigade, carried off first place in the Tyro Match, seven shots at the 200-yard range and shot concurrently with the Westminster Corporation Match. L.A.C. W. C. Harvey, R.C.A.F., Vancouver, and C.S.M. D. Kergan, Irish Fusiliers of Canada, also shot 33s, but the winner put on the best score with his last shots. Boyd, Harvey and Kergan will shoot off this afternoon for possession of the Woodward Trophy, which goes to the winner of this match. Rules for the competition call for a shoot-off in case of tied scores.

THE SPORTS MIRROR

VIRTUALLY driven from England two years ago, handsome Henry Cotton came back to return the British open golf championship to his native land for the first time in eleven years and restore much of Britain's lost prestige with the two finest rounds ever recorded in major competition.

Cotton was carried from the St. George's course at Sandwich the other day, after tying Gene Sarazen's all-time major championship record of 283 for seventy-two holes, despite the fact that his 79 of the final afternoon was seven above par.

It was those two blistering rounds of 67 and 65 that enabled Cotton to obtain a jump on the field like no one ever obtained before. And when he followed up his amazing start with 72, it was only a question of his completing the championship route. Cotton, twenty-seven now, and always a young man who spoke his mind, was hissed in the same tourney a year ago.

After establishing himself as the country's foremost player in acquiring the British professional championship in 1932, Cotton left England for Belgium early last year, partly because he was dissatisfied with the status of professionals in Britain and partly because golf spectators in England were treating him badly.

Cotton, who held American professionals in high regard and whose model was Robert Tyre Jones, shot one of the kind of rounds that helped him clinch the British open in the final match of the British professional tourney two years ago. Opposing Alfred Perry at Moor Park, he completed the first eighteen holes in 68, four strokes below the record, to win by the overwhelming marging of 10 and 8, his score for the twenty-eight holes of the match being 9 under 4's. It was in the pro championship that the dapper Cotton adopted the American plan of ignoring the opponent and concentrating on par.

Upon sailing for his native heath after making the United States winter tour of 1928 and 1929, Cotton, then just a promising youngster, told why, in his opinion, professionals of the United States excelled their British brothers.

"Fewer strokes on and about the green, keener competition and friendly criticism among the players," he explained. "British players rely on two putts to hole out, figuring any place on the green is good enough for the pitch. Americans think otherwise. They pitch for the cup every time and thereby save many strokes.

"The keen competition helps in bringing out the skill of a player. And a third factor is the manner in which most pros offer friendly criticism when they believe something is wrong."

A dispute Cotton had with the British Professional Golfers' Association in 1931 may have accounted for some of his unpopularity. He then refused to become a member of the British team that played in the Ryder Cup matches at the Scioto Country Club, Columbus, unless he could remain here as long as he chose after the matches. The British ruled that all members of the team must return together.

Cotton's refusal to aid the British team caused a great deal of comment, much of it unfavorable to him.

During Cotton's big season of 1932, "when there was nothing else to talk about, galleries made facetious remarks about his clothes, and his tendency to appear garbed less like a scarecrow than some of his rivals," said Trevor Wignall of The London Express.

"I have actually heard faint cheers or exclamations of delight when he missed a putt or fluffed an approach. There never was any sniffing at Walter Hagen when he burst into view in England attired like a fashion plate. Nor do I remember occasions when other players from abroad, who exhibited bad manners, cloaked under the name of temperament, were hauled over the coals.

"Cotton is unquestionably the leading professional of Great Britain, yet in at least two tournaments he had to beat a section of the onlookers as well as his opponents."

One of Cotton's complaints was that golfers were the only professional sportsmen in England who were asked to play for nothing in international matches. He had the pick of several clubs in the United States, but chose Belgium because there he found it easy to keep in touch with his homeland and family. Handsome Henry Cotton must have gotten a terrific bang in returning and making them like him and it.

Lawson Little Is Welcomed Home

San Francisco, July 10.—Lawson Little, British amateur golf champion, returned home to receive the city's welcome for winning the oldest and most coveted links crown of them all.

Of his amazing 14 and 13 victory over James Wallace, at Prestwick, Little said at the official reception: "I was simply 'hot' that day. It might very well have been the other way. Because I won by rather a large score is no sign Wallace is not a good player. He is all of that, and he sure is a real sportsman. They're all like that over there."

Sons' Veteran Shortstop Has Average of .444

Lloyd Cann and Bill Holman, Also of Sons, Hold Second and Third Places; Holman Leads in Doubles and Claude Belcher in Triples

Jack Bacon, veteran sorrel-topped shortstop of the league-leading Sons of Canada nine, is setting the pace for hitters in the Senior Baseball League, with the splendid mark of .444, according to the official averages released to-day by Secretary Stan Miles. Lloyd Cann, Sons' pitcher, is in second place with an average of .417, closely followed by Bill Holman, another member of the Sons, with .414. Fourth place is held by Art Chapman, elongated outfielder of the Tillicums, with .391.

In six games, Bacon has stepped up to the plate eighteen times, and has crashed out eight hits, including one three-bagger and two doubles. Cann has been to bat twelve times and clouted five hits.

Honor of smacking out the most doubles goes to Bill Holman, with seven, while Claude (Slim) Belcher, first baseman of the Poodle Dog, leads in triples, with five.

Only three home runs have been poled so far this season, and are credited to A. Chapman, Red Bennison and Tommy Musgrave.

NANAIMO WINS CRICKET PLAY

Defeats Duncan 154 to 44 in Match Sunday; Leighton Bowls Well

Nanaimo, July 10.—Deadly trundling by Leighton, who captured seven wickets for twenty-three runs, was mainly responsible for the defeat of Duncan cricketers at Nanaimo Sunday. The Nanaimo veteran was practically unplayable, only one player, Savage being able to score off him. The visitors were dismissed for the small total of 44 runs with Savage being high bat with thirteen.

Nanaimo started badly, losing four wickets for twelve runs. Boylan and Sharp made a fifth wicket stand putting on sixty-nine runs for the partnership. The former was top scorer with forty.

Green was the most successful bowler for Duncan, his average being five for twenty-eight.

VICTORIA IN CRICKET TIE

Sparks and Wenman Bat Well in No-decision Match at Vancouver Tourney

Vancouver, July 10.—The British Columbia cricket week series opened here yesterday with the Okanagan eleven, defending champions, forcing a draw with Vancouver Olbs, while Victoria had the better of a drawn game with Burrards, and Vancouver Colts defeated a strong Auroras side.

Olbs scored 205, and the fruit-growers had only 152 for eight when stumps were drawn. Victoria, led by the veteran F. A. Sparks, who scored a sparkling 106, compiled 247 to Burrards' 167 for eight, while Colts rolled up a score of 240 to Auroras' 194.

Johnson and Curtiss, the Okanagan bowlers, played havoc with the star batsmen of the Olbs' eleven, and had seven wickets down for 62 runs before Chamberlain and Hooper put on a partnership of 109 to carry the score to 171 before they were broken up.

SOUND INNINGS

Percy Barnett, the Okanagan skipper and former Gloucester county player, hit up a sound innings of 65 not out, and his work, augmented by a sterling contribution of an even half-century from Bredin, enabled the titleholders to force a draw.

Misinterpretation of signals in running between the wickets almost cost the champions the game, no less than three batsmen being run out.

Sparks and Wenman, in an opening partnership for Victoria, put on 120. Both gave clever displays, marred only by difficult chances given behind the wicket before they reached double figures. Roughton collard the islanders' bowling in a forcing inning for 80, an effort that saved the draw for the Burrards.

The defeat of Auroras was largely due to the snappy fielding by the Colts' team, while Auroras' work in the field was not up to their usual standard. Hardisty, Carey and Ward gave the best batting exhibition for the Colts.

Robinson's Smash Wins Ball Battl

Drives Home Winning Run in Last of the Ninth As Poode Dog Cafe Defeats Tillicums 6 to 5; Clubmen Put on Great Last Inning Rally

Scotty Robinson's line drive through Gibbons, Tillicums' third sacker, with two out in the last half of the ninth inning, to score Nicholson, gave the Poodle Dog Cafe a 6 to 5 victory in an exciting Senior Baseball League game at the Athletic Park yesterday evening. The Tillicums put up a great fight and in the first half of the ninth staged a brilliant rally to push four runs home and deadlock the count 5 to 5. A fair crowd attended and was treated to nine innings of interesting ball.

Down four runs when they went to bat in the ninth the Tillicums got the fans in an uproar with a batting spree. Ashikawa, first man up, was safe when Belcher dropped Bennison's throw from shortstop. Alexander singled through short, Ashikawa pulling up at second. Jones batted for Restall. Ashikawa was forced at third, Lidstone to Nex, on Jones's easy roller to the box. Patterson lined a single to centre, scoring Alexander. Harris struck out. With the count three and two on him, Barnswell lined the ball into right centre for two bases, scoring Jones and Patterson. Gibbons drove the ball through third base to send Barnswell scurrying home with the tying run. Chapman was safe when nobody fielded his hit through first base. McGinnis popped to Nex to end the inning.

OPEN SCORING

Poodle Dog opened their half with Cummins lifting to Gibbons. Nicholson drove a clean single over second base and stole second. Belcher filed to Chapman. Nicholson went to third when Alexander made a bad throw to second in an attempt to catch the runner off the sack. Robinson singled through third to score Nicholson with the deciding run.

The first inning saw the Poodle Dog open the scoring. Bennison was safe on Patterson's error, stole second and third and scored on Cummins' fly out to Patterson. The Tillicums evened matters in the third, Patterson getting a three-base knock to left centre and scoring on Barnswell's single to left field.

For the next three innings zeros were hung on the score board. In the seventh the cafemen were good for a pair of runs. Easler hit to Ashikawa and was safe at second when Restall lost the shortstop's throw in the sun. Lidstone lifted the ball into left field for a double, scoring Easler. Bennison beat out a bunt, Lidstone going to third. Bennison stole second. Cummins forced Lidstone at the plate, Alexander to McGinnis. Cummins stole second. Thompson lined to Chapman, Bennison scoring after the catch. Belcher lifted to Barnswell.

TWO TRIPLES

In the eighth the Poode Dog were good for another couple of runs. Nex hit to right field for three bases and scored on Bridgewood's triple to deep right. Lidstone laced the ball over shortstop to score Bridgewood.

Dan Lidstone, who pitched for the Poodle Dog, allowed twelve hits and struck out nine. He never got into serious trouble until the last inning. Lefty Alexander, who opposed him, was found for fourteen hits, while he breezed four.

Switch Crews For Rowing Classics

Victoria J.B.A.A. Boats Changed Around in Preparation For N.P.A.A.O. Regatta at Vancouver Friday and Saturday

James Bay Athletic Association crews last week underwent a last minute shuffle in preparation for the North Pacific Association of Amateur Oarsmen's regatta at Coal Harbor this Friday and Saturday, when Coach Dan Moses plugged vacancies in the junior and senior fours and changed other squads.

Inability of Bill Lemm, slated to row No. 2 in the first junior and senior fours, caused the major change. Jack MacDonald was given his berth in the crew stroked by Chris Usher and including Don Davis, No. 3 and Jim Temple, bow.

That crew will contest both junior and senior four honors. Second crews for the same event were also changed. Bill Dillabough will stroke the quartette in place of Arnold Mann and Hugh Francis, Bill Seatle and Jimmy Mann will hold down the other benches. Dick George, originally slated for bow, will be unable to get away, and will have Jim Mann in his place.

TO LEAVE THURSDAY

According to reports from the camp, the majority of the boys will go to Vancouver Thursday to get in a workout before the races. The crews are said to compare favorably with those which carried the local colors in previous N.P.A.A.O. meets. It will be the first appearance of Chris Usher's crew in the big races. The boys have done very well in recent regattas including the Through Victoria event on Dominion Day, when they beat Vancouver handily. They also formed part of the eight which won at Portland.

Dillabough's four also appears strong, some of the men having been included in the local eight at Portland. The boys have also shown up well in local waters.

DOUBLES HOPES

Victorians in this year's through Victoria doubles and winners in the last Okanagan pairs event, Jim and Arnold Mann are figured particularly strong bets for both junior and senior doubles, the event won in 1932 by Hugh Francis and Bill Dillabough.

Strengthened by the addition of Ian McConnan and Gordie Scott, two new boys who have been showing up well, Arnold Mann's tackweight four is expected to make a great fight to retain the title the club won in 1931 and 1932.

Mac Billingsley and Bob Wratten, a new combination formed this year, look good for the tackweight doubles. Alec Webster and Fred Parker will be competing in their first N.P.A.A.O. in the club's second boat. Billingsley, club 140-pound champion, will go in quest of higher laurels in his class in the N.P.A.A.O. tackweight event.

Senior singles hopes will rest on Hugh Francis, twice winner of The Times Cup for the Through Victoria singles and holder of the club's junior singles honors.

Three Major Meets For Y Track Squad

Schoolboy Trials in New Westminster July 25, Caledonian Games August 4 in Vancouver and Island Championships at Nanaimo on Labor Day Feature Remainder of Season

Past the main features of the provincial track year, the British Columbia championships and the Empire Games trials, Archie McKinnon's Flying Y squad will concentrate on three major events for the remainder of the season. They will be the British Columbia tryouts for the Canadian schoolboys' team, which will tour Australia, to be staged in New Westminster on July 25, the Caledonia Games in Vancouver on August 4 and the Vancouver Island championships at Nanaimo on September 3.

Providing the boys can make the trip, McKinnon will lead a smart squad to New Westminster for the schoolboy trials. With Paul Rowe, Dick Surphlis and Arnie Phillipsen listed for the century and furlong sprints, Lorne McGregor for the quarter-mile and Bill Dale and Ronnie Kitching possibilities for the half and Jim Cousins the high jump, the city squad should make a very fair showing against the pick of the province in their class.

PROMISING JUNIOR

Dale is rated one of the most promising juniors that has been developed locally for some time. He has cut down his time consistently for the half-mile and, providing he continues to improve, will rate as an outstanding senior as well as junior in the near future.

Surphlis and Rowe look good in the sprints and Cousins, in spite of the fact he is using a simple scissors jump, has been clearing the bar nicely in the hig hevent.

As usual, the local squad is expected to show up to advantage in the Caledonia Games. Unless Joe Addison catches a place on the Canadian British Empire Games team, he will be back for the meet, and Chuck Cunningham, provincial half-mile and mile champion, will be available for the contests. In addition to these stars the squad will be bolstered up by several young recruits who have just missed first places in big meets.

ISLAND MEET

The locals should face little opposition in the Vancouver Island championships at Nanaimo. Each year for the last few seasons they have annexed the majority of the crowns and will most probably be able to duplicate or even exceed their records this year.

In addition to these major meets, several local competitions are expected to be staged before the boys hang up their spikes. There will be a relay and two-twenty open race in the Navy Week sports and possibly several dual and club meets before the season ends.

Another Swan Found Poisoned

Remains of another of the royal swans imported for Elk Lake from one of King George's flocks on the Thames were discovered and brought into town yesterday by Game Warden McCall. The bird had disappeared some time ago. The discovery was made near a fence line north of the bird pen at the lake. An examination of the remains conducted by Cecil French indicated the bird had been poisoned by salted corn.

"It is an offence to poison birds with salt," said Mr. French. "Elk Lake is a bird sanctuary and persons interfering with birds there are liable on two counts."

CANADIANS TO MEET TAIYOS

Former Have Chance of Regaining Twilight Baseball Lead With Victory

Out to regain first place in the Twilight Baseball League standing, Sons of Canada will send a strong nine against Taiyos this evening at the Athletic Park at 6.15 o'clock.

Sidney jumped back into the lead in the standings on Sunday with an 8 to 6 verdict over Pitzer & Nex at the north Saanich grounds. The lumbermen were four runs down at the start, but rallied in the later innings and came through with a win.

In this evening's fixture, Wally Couts is expected to start on the mound for the Taiyos with Kuwabara completing the battery.

Art Carr, first string chucker for the Sons, will open the hurling for the Canadians.

TIME TRIALS NEXT WEEK

Senior Riders to Travel Over Twenty-five-mile Route on July 19

In another of their strenuous time trials, riders of the Victoria Cycling Club will race out to Saanichton and back in a twenty-five-mile event a week from next Thursday. Those intending to participate in the contest are requested to have their entries in by July 17.

As usual two events will be held, the one for riders under eighteen being staged over a course starting at the corner of Quadra and Market Street, and proceeding to the Saanich Health Centre and return.

For the twenty-five-mile grind the contestants will start at the same place and ride out to Pole 6025, three-quarters of a mile past Saanichton, and back.

All participants must be members of some cycle club affiliated with the C.W.A., and those under eighteen years must have the approval of their parents or guardians.

Entries may be mailed to George Robinson, 1220 Broad Street; Peden Bros., Douglas Street; Plimley and Ritchie Limited, 611 View Street, or R. J. Smith, 1702 Douglas Street.

MURIO SCORES EASY VICTORY

Seattle, July 10.—Led by John Murio, San Francisco, and Bobby Harmon, Berkeley, California's invading racquet aces easily romped through the first round of the Washington state tennis championships here yesterday.

Murio loafed to victory against Cecil Kirton, Seattle, winning 6-3, 6-1, and Harmon hung up two wins, defeating Frank Ketcham, Seattle, 6-1, 6-3, in the men's race, and eliminating Lawrence Bacilich, Tacoma, 6-0, 6-0, in the junior division.

Women court pounders were given a holiday as only sixteen were entered.

Sabin conquered Jack Mitchell, Seattle, 6-4, 6-0, after trouncing Herb Lilljebeck, Tacoma, 6-0, 6-0, and Page downed Lawrence Bacalich, Tacoma, 6-3, 6-1.

Kessler defeated Dick Phillipi, Portland, 6-2, 6-3, and Eden eliminated Bradford Crane, Tacoma, 1-6, 6-4, 6-4.

Engineer Party Concludes Visit

Frederick P. Shearwood of Montreal, president of the Engineering Institute of Canada, and R. J. Durley, also of Montreal, general secretary of the institute, to-day completed their visit with members of the Victoria branch of the engineering society. Accompanying them was C. A. Mead, civil engineer of Newark, New Jersey, and member of the executive of the American Society of Civil Engineers.

This morning the party, including their wives, accompanied by J. P. Forde, Federal Public Works engineer, set out by motor over the Malahat for Nanaimo, from where they will take the ferry to Vancouver. There they will take part in the combined conventions this week of the Canadian and United States engineering societies.

Mr. Shearwood during his stay here spoke to local engineers at a luncheon at Spencer's, taking as his subject "Administration of the Institute."

A number of women who have come to Vancouver for the two conventions came to Victoria yesterday. They were entertained at the Empress Hotel by wives of members of the local branch, and in the evening were taken to Butchart's Gardens.

LAWN BOWLING

The Burnside Lawn Bowling Club entertained members of the Nanaimo Club on Sunday. This is an annual affair and a game of thirty-one ends was played. Lunch was served when fifteen ends had been played.

Mr. Stewart, the Burnside president, welcomed the visitors, and expressed the hope that next year they would be able to return the visit and play them on their own green, which is now completed and will soon be available for play.

Mr. Dixon, of Nanaimo, replied and complimented the Burnside Club on the splendid condition of its green, and also thanked the ladies for the excellent lunch they had served.

TWO CANADIAN CLUBS BEATEN

Montreal and Toronto Drop Odd Run Decisions in International Baseball

Largely due to Albany Senators consistent playing over the last three weeks, the International Baseball League pennant race is rapidly rounding into a real battle for third and fourth place with Toronto Maple Leafs and Montreal Royals in the thick of the strife.

The Senators, winner of seventeen of their last twenty-four games, held fourth place to-day, only four and half games of third-place Leafs, while the Royals were another two and half games further down the standings in fifth position. But for Rochester Red Wings' consistent playing there would be a contest for second place.

Albany strengthened its hold on fourth place and assured itself of that position for at least the duration of the current series by defeating Royals 4 to 3 in ten innings yesterday. Del Bissonette, former Brooklyn first baseman, and Bill Brubaker were largely responsible for the victory.

Newark Bears did their part in making the battle for third and fourth places a little closer by defeating the Leafs, also by the score of 4 to 3.

Rochester Red Wings stayed within challenging distance of the Bears, winning their third straight game at the expense of Syracuse Chiefs. The score was 7 to 6, with the Wings scoring five of their runs in the seventh to break a 2 to 2 deadlock.

Buffalo Bisons continued their winning streak by defeating Baltimore Orioles 6 to 3 for their sixth victory in their last eight games.

Cologne, Germany, is known as the "City of Three Kings," because it is the reputed burial place of the Three Wise Men.

Wheat Prices Gain On Both Exchanges

Canadian Press

Winnipeg, July 10.—Wheat futures more than recovered Monday's losses on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange to-day, closing ⅝c to ½c higher. Trading, though not of great volume, was buoyant from start to finish. Leadership came from abroad.

Liverpool prices closed ½d higher, and the market received further impetus from upswings at Chicago.

Cash grain closed fractionally up. Coarse grains climbed in sympathy with wheat.

Associated Press

Chicago, July 10.—A pronounced reversal of bearish sentiment as to grain values became evident to-day, and all cereal markets went upward.

Commission house interest was a contributing factor.

Wheat closed unsettled ⅝c to 1¼c higher. Corn ⅞c to 1⅛c up; oats ⅜c, off to ⅝c up, and provisions showing 7c to 15c gain.

HEAVY APRICOT CROP PROBLEM

Crop This Year Placed at Double That of Last Two Years; Prices Low

Canadian Press

Vernon, July 10. — Rush of a big crop of apricots presents the Okanagan fruit industry's immediate marketing problem. Government estimates place the crop at 225,000 crates, more than twice as many as during 1933 or 1932. Advertising to call attention to the crop and low prices offering most attractive values for thrifty housewives are the means employed. A hint that 25 per cent of the crop may be too small to pick, thereby reducing late offerings to almost nothing, is another thought presented to provident housewives.

Straight cars of transparent apples will be moving out of the valley about the end of this week. There is a collision on the markets between the yellow transparents grown in 1934 and the winesaps grown in 1933. When the last of the 1933 crop is out of the way the situation will be easier and the movement more regular.

Cabbage growers are delighted with the increase in price to $55 a ton, though the report is current the advance is mostly due to the fact the cabbage is not heading as it should. Ontario is reported from another source to be offering supplies very freely. In the meantime $40 a ton for carrots and 65c a case for cucumbers are pleasing to the growers. White potatoes are fetching $18 a ton and reds $16 a ton.

LONDON MARKET

London, July 10. — Investment buying with cheap money imported gilt-edged securities and home rails. Oil, rubber and transatlantic issues met good support. Gold mining shares were reactionary. The market closed steady.

WEEKLY MARKET REVIEW

By Alan. Pringle, Canadian Press Writer

Toronto, July 10.—The only optimistic note in stock market operations was the size of the trade in the new group of Canadian gold mines, particularly those that inaugurated milling withing recent months and those planning on having mills in operation before the end of this year. All other groups were slow and a little down in price, their performance harmonizing with events on the Wall Street market.

Buffalo-Ankerite set the pace for price appreciation by gaining 49 cents in the week and Little Long Lac was up 60 cents until profit-taking trimmed it down.

By John P. Boughan, Associated Press Market Editor

Chicago, July 10 — Unexpectedly keen milling demand for the 1934 wheat crop is giving the grain trade a surprise, and serving to hold market downturns in check

Notwithstanding a harvest movement that has been both heavier and earlier than usual, the demand for wheat available to be delivered to mills at once has proved a source of astonishment, and to an extent seldom equalled is keeping cash prices strong at all domestic markets as compared with future deliveries. Chief among the reasons advanced is a belief on the part of millers that the new wheat this season has the highest protein content known for many years.

Compared with one week back, prices of wheat futures this morning were ⅝ to 1⅝ cents a bushel lower, whereas corn was 1⅛ to 2⅞ down. Oats were ⅛ to ⅝ off, and provisions [illegible] cents up.

LONDON MONEY

[illegible]

Associated Press

New York, July 10.—Stock market sentiment turned to the optimistic side of the price picture to-day and recoveries of one to more than two points were recorded by numerous issues.

The close was firm. Transfers approximated 650,000 shares.

The list rebounded in the first hour at a faster rate than has been witnessed in several weeks. Scattered short covering was said to have helped the rally. After the initial spurt, trading again turned dull.

Among shares establishing new tops for 1934 or longer were those of Coca Cola, American Sugar refining, Lily-Tulip Cup and Homestake Mining. Homestake, at $4.25 a share was up 4 points, and the others were about 1 to 2 higher. Advances of 1 to around 2 were held by U.S. Smelting, Alaska Juneau, Johns-Manville, N.Y. Central, Santa Fe, American Telephone, Western Union, Bethlehem Steel, Case, Sears Roebuck, Montgomery Ward, American Can, Continental Can, Du Pont, United Aircraft and Westinghouse. U.S. Steel, General Motors, Chrysler, Consolidated Gas and a number of others were up fractionally. Columbia Gas dropped more than a point.

International Nickel, Dome and McIntyre improved fractionally, but Canadian Pacific was barely steady. On the curb, Lake Shore and Hiram Walker were about even.

BOND MARKET RULES HIGHER

Associated Press

New York, July 10.—All sections of the bond list ruled moderately higher in the late trading.

Some loans of Chile Copper, International Telephone, Kansas Gas and Electric, New York Central and Southern Pacific were fairly strong. Columbia Gas and Electric 5s held their early gain of half a point after announcement of the dividend omission on the common stocks.

Treasury issues were generally 1-32 to 8-32 of a point above the previous finals. Columbia 6s and Poland 7s dropped a point or so, but firmness marked most other foreign groups.

FINE OUTLOOK FOR CONGRESS

J. A. Burchett Reports on Considerable Development Done in Short Time

Returning from an inspection trip to the Congress Gold Mines Limited, Bridge River, J. A. Burchett of C. M. Oliver and Company was enthusiastic about development done to date at the property.

Mr. Burchett stated that since work was started last February, a considerable tonnage of commercial ore had been developed. A tunnel had been started on an outcrop at an elevation of 385 feet above the Pioneer Road. This tunnel had been opened up for 220 feet and in good milling ore all the way. A cross-cut tunnel had then been started 135 feet lower to intersect the ore body at this depth and had now cut the ore body, and drifting was being carried on along the vein.

This ore at depth proved to be a high grade of milling ore and an assay across the full width of the drift showed an average value of $32. Drifting, he said, was now being pushed ahead twenty-four hours a day and another cross-cut tunnel which would be the working tunnel for milling purposes was being driven 130 feet lower again. Mr. Burchett was much impressed by the amount of development done on the property in the short time and he asserts there is not another property in the Bridge River which has so much commercial ore showing, with so little money expended. T. C. Botterhill, M.E., is mine manager, assisted by J. A. McKenzie, M.E., and H. L. Batten, M.E., is consulting.

Flotation tests have been made of Congress ore by Pan-American Engineering Corporation of San Francisco, who report there are no difficulties in recovering the gold by a simple flotation process. Work is to be pushed ahead rapidly and raising and stoping in preparation for a mill will be carried on. Power from the B.C. Electric is carried by transmission lines directly to the property and as soon as current is turned in will be used for all power machinery. Mr. Burchett states he was most cordially treated by the various mining companies in the Bridge River and was given opportunities of visiting among others Bralorne, Minto, Pilot, B.R.X., B.R. Consolidated and Taylor Bridge River.

Dorothy Dix's Letter Box

DEAR MISS DIX—I am one of the hundreds of old men who have given up their old wives for young ones. How a man of sane mind can do such a foolish thing is beyond comprehension, but I and thousands of others have done it to our sorrow.

I married my first wife when we were both young and she stood the test of going through all the tough places with me. She helped me get on my feet and make my fortune. For forty years she toiled at my side and then, when I got on Easy Street, success went to my head. I thought she was not good enough for me and I married a girl young enough to be my daughter and I am punished for what I did, as I deserve. Do I think it all over, and do I repent? Plenty.

W. H.

Answer — If it is true that misery loves company, as the old proverb says, you have the comfort, W. H., of knowing that there are plenty of other unhappy old men in the same boat with you. For swapping old wives for new is an unholy business. There is a curse upon it that blights the life of the one who engages in it.

I get hundreds upon hundreds of letters from men who tell me exactly the same story that you do. When they were young they married girls who loved them for themselves alone and who endured every hardship with them; working harder than any slave to help them get a start in the world; doing without every comfort and luxury so that the money might go back into the business; making of their shoulders a ladder on which their husbands climbed to success. Twenty, thirty, forty years of absolute devotion and selfishness these women gave their husbands. Twenty, thirty, forty years of cooking and washing and scrubbing and baby-tending, of watching by sickbeds, of work and anxiety, and hoping and planning, of living just for a husband.

And then, the goal won, the fortune made. The wife's services no longer needed. The man's ego so inflated that he thinks himself superior to his wife and is ashamed of her. His money and position make him worth exploiting by the gold-diggers, and young and pretty women flatter and cajole him and tell him how young and handsome he is, and he falls for it like the veriest sap.

He decides he needs a pretty young wife to match his fine new furniture, and forgetting all that his old wife has done for him he divorces her and pensions her off with the least alimony her lawyers will let her take.

It is a common story. It is told to me every day. Not one of us but has seen it happen and not one of us but has seen it end in tragedy.

For girls do not marry men old enough to be their fathers for anything except their pocketbooks and the old man who thought that a young woman was in love with him finds out before the bridal tour is over that the only thing she loves about him is his money and she begins collecting the price for which she sold herself. His first wife saved him in every way. The young wife has no consideration whatever for him. The first wife burnt incense at his feet. The young wife derides him for the old fool that he is, and lets him see that she is bored to tears by his fussy old ways.

And the man who thought he was too young for his old wife finds out that he is old also, and that he deluded himself in believing he was a boy again. He can't go the pace with the youngsters. His old bones cry out for rest instead of being dragged around to places of amusement, and so it ends up by his sitting on the sidelines and paying the bills for the fling his young wife has with youngsters of her own age.

No man on earth is more lonely, more forlorn, more out of the picture than the old husband of a young wife. They have nothing in common, not a taste, not a thought, not a memory, and he is of all men the most miserable.

It is the custom to pity the woman when a man forsakes a faithful old wife for a pretty young girl, but the one to be sorry for is the silly old man who throws away the priceless devotion of a lifetime for a pretty face that mocks him behind his back and whose every kiss has to be bought.

DEAR MISS DIX—The ten qualifications that a man must have to attract me are: First—Good health and habits. Second—Good looks. Third—Intelligence. Fourth—Cleanliness. Fifth—Kindness, consideration and big-heartedness. Sixth—Must be good spender. Never blink an eye when paying a bill. Always buy best food and liquor. Remember birthdays, anniversaries, etc. Seventh—Must be good mixer. Must have many friends. Eighth—Must be entertaining companion. Good conversationalist. Ninth—Must be efficient. Good money-maker. Tenth—Must be good drinker. One who does not get silly and maudlin over a few cocktails. Yes, Miss Dix, a man must be quite unusual to please me. I have found two or three who did, but haven't been able to hold them. Can you advise me how to do it? I am a divorcee, twenty-eight years old, with two children.

LILLIAN.

Answer — Alas, Lillian, the Admirable Crichton perished untimely many years ago and he left no successor. At any rate, if there is any one pinch-hitting for him I haven't his address.

All you seem to desire in a man are all the virtues and graces and then some and that may explain not only why you are a divorcee, but why you have been unable to hold the men who attracted you. You ask too much of any mortal man. They simply couldn't make the grade.

Men don't like having to live up to an ideal. It puts too much of a strain upon them. They want a woman to admire them for their good qualities and turn a blind eye upon their faults, and until you do this they will fight shy of you.

And then perhaps it would be just as well for you to take stock of your own qualifications as a woman and ask yourself what you have to give in exchange to this paragon among men. Are you beautiful, healthy, witty, wise, popular, a good dresser, a good cook, a thrifty manager? Have you money of your own? Are you amiable, sweet-tempered, tactful and easy to get along with? What ten virtues have you to recommend you? Turn about is fair play, you know.

• • • • • • • •

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—I have been married fifteen years to a devoted husband who is very domestic and rarely goes out without me. Lately several women have called me up on the telephone and told me that my husband was unfaithful to me and stepping out with other women. I don't see how this would be possible as he is always with me when he is not at work. Should I tell him about it or let the matter drop?

JOYCE.

Answer—Let the matter drop unless it is worrying you. If it is on your mind, tell him about it and who the cats are who are trying to make trouble between you. Any woman who would try to arouse a wife's jealousy is so unprincipled that she is perfectly capable of making up the stories she tells.

HOROSCOPE

"The stars incline, but do not compel"

WEDNESDAY, JULY 11, 1934

Benefic aspects are strong to-day. It is read as a favorable date for ocean sailings, and tourists are under a sway making for pleasant surprises that may include adventurous thrills.

Women are under a sway favorable to lighter interests and social affairs. Business should benefit.

This is an auspicious day for weddings. Marriages will increase in number in the autumn. More boys than girls will be born within the year, astrologers predict.

Newspapers will carry tidings of good import for the United States, but Mars frowns on Europe and Asia.

London astrologers prognosticate for President Roosevelt increase of powerful enemies, but this will merely add to the problems which the head of the government will meet successfully. The seers attribute his ability partly to a certain and swift-moving mind quick to discover mistakes and to rectify them.

Perils on the water are presaged and yachtsmen are warned to expect sudden violent storms.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of a year of prosperity in which important business or professional affairs will develop. Young men will be lucky.

Children born on this day probably will be exact in mind, industrious and able to win success. These subjects of Cancer usually have high ideals and fine intelligence.

John Wanamaker, merchant and onetime postmaster-general, was born on this day, 1838.

Capt. E. E. Crockett Drops Dead in Seattle, After Bringing Ship to Port

Seattle, July 10.—Ending a colorful career of more than half a century on the sea, Capt. E. E. Crockett, veteran master and pilot for the Alaska Steamship Company, dropped dead yesterday morning in Seattle shortly after bringing the steamship Cordova to Tacoma from the north.

Capt. Crockett, who died as all real two-fisted sailormen wish to die, on duty, but with his ship safe in port, was one of the many young seamen of Gloucester who came to this Coast to win advancement on the then comparatively unknown waters of the Pacific Northwest.

With Capt. O. E. Decker and Capt. Joe Cantillion, also famous old-timers, Capt. Crockett arrived in Seattle in 1891. Their first venture was the construction of a seventy-two-foot schooner, the Willard Ainsworth. This schooner, under the command of Capt. Crockett, sailed north to the Bering Sea on a seal-hunting expedition, with the other two captains along as hunters.

KNOWN HERE

Their business prospered and was continued until Pelagic sealing was forbidden by international treaty a few years later. Capt. Crockett was well known in other northwest ports in the early days, having had many friends among the sealing captains in Victoria, B.C., then the base of a great fleet of sealing schooners.

After his sealing days were over, Capt. Crockett became master of the former revenue cutter Grant, after her sale by the government to private interests, and made several fishing voyages aboard her.

Because of his expert knowledge of Alaska waters, Capt. Crockett's rise in the service of the Alaska Steamship Company and its predecessors was rapid and at various times he was master or pilot on all the ships of the fleet, including the crack passenger lines put into service in recent years.

He is survived by a widow and a daughter in Seattle.

The figures of height serve to distinguish high water from low water. Where blanks occur in the tables, the tide rises or falls continuously during three of the usual tidal periods.

STARTING HIS FINAL VOYAGE

Next time Capt. R. G. Latta crosses the Atlantic it will be as a passenger, for he has now finished his career as a master of ships. In the above picture he is shown shaking hands with Capt. W. J. McGiffen, general superintendent of the Canadian Pacific Steamships at Montreal, on the bridge of the Ss. Empress of Britain, which Capt. Latta has had for the last three years. Capt. Latta took the Britain out of Quebec last week and is now in England, where he will live.

NEW SIGNALS ON VESSELS

"Princess" Steamers Being Equipped With Latest and Most Modern Alarms

Vancouver, July 10.—The "auto alarm," apparatus, so selective that it responds to nothing but a special distress signal of twelve well-spaced dashes, is being placed aboard five of the Canadian Pacific's coastal liners by the Canadian Marconi Company.

Already the Ss. Princess Louise and the Ss. Princess Charlotte, in the Alaska service, and the Ss. Princess Alice, relief ship on the triangle run, have been equipped with "auto alarm," and this week the Ss. Princess Kathleen and the Ss. Princess Marguerite, the trim sister-ships on the Vancouver-Victoria-Seattle triangle run and Vancouver-Seattle night run, will be similarly equipped.

The "auto alarm" is a special kind of equipment now insisted on by United States regulations in cases where passenger ships have anything but full twenty-four-hour wireless service. The five ships of the coastal fleet, equipped or being equipped with the additional service, have but one wireless operator.

By means of the "auto alarm," however, the special distress signal used for this equipment, copies of which have been issued to all stations and ships, sounds an alarm bell simultaneously on the bridge and in the operator's sleeping quarters.

Thus the operator, turning in for the allotted forty winks, cuts in the "auto alarm" and is instantly roused when the distress signal is picked up.

Addition of the new system gives the Ss. Princess Marguerite and the Ss. Princess Kathleen a total of four kinds of wireless-radio equipment. In addition to "auto-alarm" they have facilities for the customary two-way wireless, as well as wireless telephone for local conversations regarding weather and other business, and radio for entertainment of passengers.

Schooner Sinks; Crew Rows Ashore

Canadian Press

St. John's, Nfld., July 10.—Safe on land, eight Newfoundland seamen told to-day how they had rowed ten miles through a stormy sea after their schooner had gone to the bottom off Cape Pine.

Their schooner, Czar of the Sea, sprang a leak Saturday under the buffeting of a storm which arose while they were fishing in Trepassy Bay.

Capt. Charles Brown of Tack's Beach and his seven men piled into their two dories as the ship settled in the water, and struck out for shore. A heavy wind was blowing and great seas tossed the little craft, but they made Trepassy Harbor in five hours.

HAWAII BOYS AT M'MURRAY

Party From Honolulu Traveling Towards Alkavik, After Shooting Athabaska Rapids

McMurray, Alta., July 10.—Fifteen young men from the University of Hawaii and the Panahou High School of Honolulu to-day were sailing down the waterways rounte toward Aklavik. The adventuresome youths arrived here Saturday from Athabaska, where they built their five boats and left again Sunday.

Object of the trip is one of education, and the sturdy youths told thrilling stories of shooting the eighty miles of rapids in the Athabaska River between Athabaska and this point.

The party left Honolulu on June 8 and traveled to Victoria by the Ss. Niagara.

At the mouth of the Mackenzie River the boys will fly to Fort Yukon and Valdez, Alaska, and thence back to Seattle.

NAVY VETERAN PASSES AWAY

Late Lieut. C. Rochfort Served With British Navy at Many Distant Ports

Vancouver, July 10.—Final tribute had been paid yesterday to a sixty-four-year-old British naval officer who had served in stirring scenes in many parts of the world, until malaria forced him to retire while still a young man.

Lieutenant Gustavus Cowper Rochfort was the first man to cross the walls of Benin, west coast of Africa, when a British expedition assaulted the place in the last century. His men tossed him over ahead of them.

Previous to that he had served three and one-half years at Hongkong and had many exciting experiences with Chinese and Malay pirates.

After the Benin incident he was for a while assistant resident in northern Nigeria.

Ill-health, brought on by successive attacks of malaria, forced his retirement in 1901, at which time he held the post of lieutenant-assistant paymaster.

Lieut. Rochfort was a "sea-son" of Lord Walter Kerr, who nominated him to the navy. He was a shipmate of King George, Earl Beatty and many officers who became famous in the Great War. He was born in West Meath County, Ireland, and joined the navy at the age of fifteen.

After his retirement, Lieut. Rochfort came to Canada and for a period was a police magistrate at Rochford Bridge, northwest of Edmonton. In 1905 he was married at Fernie to Mildred A. C. Balleny, who survives him. One brother, Cowper Rochfort, and a sister, Mrs. Arthur Covey, also survive, in Victoria.

The funeral of Lieut. Rochfort was held here on Saturday.

PLANE SAVES MUCH TIME

Trip to Isolated Lake, Ordinarily Two-week Journey, Made in Two Hours

Vancouver, July 10.—Accomplishing in two hours a journey which by ordinary methods would have required at least two weeks of hard travel, a party of British Columbia government forestry men flew into the heart of northern Vancouver Island on Sunday with Major D. R. Maclaren of the Canadian Airways Ltd.

The seaplane, with a sixteen-foot freight canoe firmly lashed to its undercarriage, left the Sea Island airport shortly after 8 o'clock in the morning, and by 10.15 o'clock had landed on Woss Lake and established a cache. Then it went on to Shoen Lake, where two forestry men, Charles Shultz and G. S. Andrews of Victoria, established a camp and unloaded the canoe.

They will make a forestry survey of the area for the provincial government. F. D. Mulholland of Victoria, assistant forester, accompanied the plane to direct operations.

By ordinary methods the party and its 600 pounds of supplies would have to be taken into the wilds of the island via Alert Bay, a task which would require not only two weeks but the services of at least four men.

U.S. Aviator Disqualified

Detroit, July 10.—Colonel Roscoe Turner, United States speed flier, has been disqualified as a competitor in the international air race from London to Melbourne, Australia, he revealed here to-day.

He announced he had received notice from the Royal Arrow Club of London, England, saying his entry had been technically disqualified.

"It seems as though the race committee, instead of trying to help American pilots to compete, is trying to see how many of them can be kept out," said Turner to reporters.

He explained the technicality involved the fact he made the mistake of cabling the English air race officials he would fly a Douglas twin motor low wing racer while his entry blank designated a Boeing racer.

TWO MEN LOST ON GRAND BANKS

St. John's, Nfld., July 10.—Her flag at halfmast, the fishing schooner Ruby Wiscombe came into harbor by Aqia Forte yesterday to report the loss of two Mortier Bay seamen.

She was fishing on the Grand Banks Thursday when the men left her side in a dory. Fog shut down later and the two dory-mates strayed away from the ship.

At the end of a two-day search for the seamen the men on the schooner had not found any trace of men, and it was believed they had perished.

BIG MANHUNT IN WISCONSIN

Associated Press

Fond du Lac, Wis., July 10.—A wild gun battle between deputy sheriffs and a band of gunmen riding in a large automobile led to rumors John Dillinger was on another rampage, and sent Wisconsin peace officers on an extensive manhunt to-day. One of the gunmen was believed to have been wounded.

The fight, which occurred on a highway near here yesterday, left a maze of conflicting details, but no tangible evidence that the elusive Indiana bad man was involved.

AORANGI DUE ON THURSDAY

Running twenty-four hours ahead of schedule, because of fine weather on the Pacific, the Canadian-Australasian motorship Aorangi will reach the William Head quarantine station at 10 o'clock Thursday morning, Capt. J. F. Spring-Brown, master of the ship, this morning advised the local Canadian Pacific office.

The Aorangi is coming in from Sydney, Auckland, Suva and Honolulu and is bringing a large list of passengers and a heavy general cargo and mail consignments.

CRASH KILLS PLANE PILOT

Two of Passengers Seriously Injured in Crash at San Bernardino

San Bernardino, Calif., July 10.—George E. Hague, air racing pilot, was killed and his three passengers injured, two of them perhaps fatally, when the plane in which they rode crashed at the Shandin Hills airport here yesterday.

The four had flown from Los Angeles in connection with a court case in which two of them, attorneys, were interested. As they attempted to take off the plane did not gain altitude fast enough. Hague swerved to miss one row of eucalyptus trees and swept the wheels of the plane into another row. The ship toppled over into a water melon patch.

The two who, hospital attendants said, were possibly fatally hurt, were Samuel E. Edwards, forty-five, Holywood, and Assistant Fire Chief Harry Clairbourne, forty-three, Los Angeles.

Mantz said he had rented the plane to Sampson for the trip.

Loads Cargo For England

To pick up a parcel of locally canned loganberries, the Furness motorship Pacific Ranger docked at the Rithet piers this morning at 8.40 o'clock from Vancouver. Several passengers will also go aboard here before the ship proceeds to Puget Sound ports to-morrow morning.

With a good cargo for local discharge, the freighter Bonnington Court docked at the Rithet piers this morning at 10 o'clock from Montreal. Capt. R. Rooks reported a fine voyage by way of the Panama Canal. The Bonnington Court is in service for the Vancouver-St. Lawrence Line.

ARTISTS GIVEN BIG RECEPTION

Large First-night Audience at Empire Theatre Applauds Singer and Musicians

Splendid musical entertainment is being given on the stage of the Empire Theatre this week, with a piano accordion contest being featured. A large first-night audience yesterday evening gave loud applause to the Iacolucci quartette and Miss Virgina LeRae, former star of the San Carlo and Chicago Civic opera companies and recently a radio favorite.

The Iacolucci quartette is composed of the four children of Luca Iacolucci, prominent member of the Italian colony of Seattle, and one of the leading music-lovers of that city. In the quartette are Agnesina, Domenico, Lena and Francesco, the last-named being the leader of the group and the genial master of ceremonies for the other acts in connection with the stage presentation.

This group is most versatile. Its members can play both jazz and the lighter classics. Francesco's arrangement of Von Suppe's "Light Cavalry Overture," with three violins and piano accordion was exceedingly well done, and reminded one of a miniature symphony.

POPULAR NUMBERS

A medley of popular songs brought loud applause from the audience and the talented youngsters were recalled again and again. Francesco, who has mastered the piano accordion, also appeared in a feature offering on this instrument.

Virginia LeRae is the possessor of a bird-like coloratura voice, which is able to reach nearly four octaves. She has sung many times in grand opera, but her programme this week is composed of lighter numbers. Yesterday evening's numbers were the "Italian Street Song," "Estrellita," "Song Birds at Eventide," and "The Last Rose of Summer." This charming Irish number she sang beautifully.

In the piano accordion contest, sponsored by Fletcher Brothers, Frank E. White of Victoria was the winner of the first evening's honors. On a Hohner instrument he rendered "Sweetheart of Mine." There were three other competitors and the judging was done by the applause of the audience. There will be a contest each evening, the winner of each appearance in the finals at the Empire Thursday evening for the Fletcher Silver Cup.

On the screen are two fine pictures, one starring George Arliss in "A Successful Calamity" and the other Charles Ruggles, Charles Farrell and Marguerite Churchill in "Girl Without a Room."

Lake Hill W.I. Picnic—Lake Hill Women's Institute will hold their annual picnic on Thursday at Little Cordova Bay, for which a most attractive programme of sports has been arranged. Buses will leave the Community Centre at 10.30 o'clock, and will leave Little Cordova on the return journey at 7 p.m.

Ed. Oleschuk, Alfred Craig and Oscar Brooks were remanded for jury trial July 12. George Sikick was allowed to depart on his own recognizance of $500, and the preliminary hearing of Magnus Waldo was held over for disposition.

NAZI CAMPAIGN IN UNITED STATES

Congressional Committee Is Told of Bales of Propaganda Sent From Germany

Associated Press

New York, July 10.—Warning by Raymond Moley, former Assistant Secretary of State, against the spread of Nazi influence in the United States, and testimony of "bales of propaganda" sent here from Germany, were heard yesterday by the sub-committee of the special House of Representatives committee on un-American activities.

Dr. Moley, an adviser to President Roosevelt, appeared before the committee briefly as editor of the magazine To-day.

"Whether an organic connection with the government is proved or not, any organizer that has the same ideals as the Nazis in Germany is a danger to our country," Moley said.

Fritz Gissibl, member of the National Socialist Party of Germany, made the statement regarding propaganda pamphlets, some of them attacking Jews and Free Masons. He declared the material was distributed by the "Friends of New Germany," an organization for which Gissibl is the newly appointed Middle Western leader.

The committee also made public testimony taken at a previous private hearing purporting to show that Dr. Hans Luther, German Ambassador at Washington, had arranged free transportation to Germany for several United States writers because he hoped they would present Germany in a favorable light in subsequent articles.

INDIAN YOUTHS COME TO CAMP

The annual Y.M.C.A. boys' camp, which opens at Maple Lawn, Sooke, at the end of the month, will have an even wider attraction than usual this year with the announcement that two Indian youths from the residential school at Ahousat will be the guests of the "Y" boys.

The two youths, Ian Seitcher and Roy Alexander, are bringing with them some of the Indian tools which their forefathers used, and they will instruct the members of the camp in the making of bows and arrows and in the construction of dug-out canoes. One of the two is also an expert in the painting of Indian legendary animals and birds.

They are among the party from the school who had their first glimpse of city life last winter when they came to Victoria as the guests of the Y.M.C.A.

The two boys, like all their race, are quiet and apparently indifferent to their surroundings, although in reality they are watching everything with a keen interest, and making comparisons between their mode of life and the white man's.

MARKET NOTES

Preserving apricots from the Okanagan are now at the peak of their season, and this is the ideal time for canning. Housewives are advised to have their apricots put down without delay.

The first Okanagan outside-grown tomatoes reached Victoria to-day. They are considerably larger than the hothouse products.

A shipment of corn was received from the Okanagan this morning.

California peaches and pears and Yakima pears are among the other new arrivals which flooded wholesale row this morning.
